King and Queen Greeted Warmly In Jasper Park

Cheered By People Of Hamlets On Arrival From Coast Rest Till Tomorrow

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer
JASPER, Alta.—King George and Queen Elizabeth entered Jasper National Park today as the blue and silver Royal train carried them from the British Columbia coast to new scenes in northern Alberta and Saskatchewan.

For a 21 1/2-hour rest stop here, Their Majesties arrived to the cheers of school children and adults from Jasper and its surrounding mountain hamlets. Visitors from more distant points joined the welcoming homefolk. The Royal train, after its trip through mountain grandeur, pulled into this village of the Rockies on schedule at 12 noon, M.S.T. Their Majesties will rest here until 9:30 a.m. tomorrow, when they will leave for Edmonton.

For the first time on the Canadian visit Queen Elizabeth appeared in public in the same costume a second time. She was dressed in the light grey suit she wore in Banff, where the Royal party visited last Saturday.

Her Majesty also wore an off-the-face blue-grey hat with grey shoes and a blue-grey blouse. She carried her double scarf of matching shade.

King George wore a grey tweed top coat and a lounge, suit of worsted grey. He also wore a grey turned-down hat.

WELCOMED BY DIRECTOR

Immediately on their arrival, they were welcomed by J. A. Wood, parks superintendent, and Mrs. Wood, who were presented to Their Majesties on arrival.

Welcome also was extended by Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, M.P., minister without portfolio in the Dominion Cabinet and member in the Commons for Edmonton.

After the brief welcoming ceremonies, Their Majesties made the three-mile drive to Jasper Park lodge.

Their Majesties found themselves in the invigorating and somewhat chilly mountain air with the sky a bit cloudy. Yesterday they had left Victoria with its brilliant sunshine; its sea breezes and its luxuriant vegetation and today they were in the dry air 3,470 feet above sea level.

All night the Pilot train and the Royal train climbed into the mountains and the day broke with the sky overcast. As the trains reached Red Pass Junction, Mount Robson, monarch of the Rockies, stood in majestic grandeur in the distance.

No formal program had been arranged for Jasper, as Their Majesties planned a brief period of complete relaxation.

FLOWERS IN BLOOM

Jasper was resplendent in its near-summer splendor for Their Majesties.

Part of Jasper Park Lodge, outlook cabin, and temporary residence of Their Majesties, is a spectacle of color both inside and outside. Under careful supervision of gardeners, thousands of plants were brought out in full bloom. Flowers are banded throughout the whole of the lodge.

THE WEATHER

VICTORIA, 9 a.m. today—Pressure remains high from British Columbia southward with a depression approaching Queen Charlotte Islands. The weather has been mainly fair and moderately warm on the coast but cool with light showers in the interior. In the next 24 hours, there will be a change to mainly fair and moderate with some showers over the interior province.

Britain To Talk Again With Russia

Negotiations for Defence Pact to Continue; Changed Basis Because of Molotoff's Speech

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON—Negotiations for a mutual defence pact linking Russia with Great Britain and France will continue, it was stated today in official circles.

The form of a new approach to the Kremlin was left to be determined after Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax's return to the Foreign Office late today following a short Whitsuntide holiday.

Despite the speech yesterday by Vyacheslav Molotoff, Soviet Foreign Commissar, criticizing British proposals for a three-way alliance, official circles in London still are confident that an agreement will be reached, perhaps reasonably soon.

One of Molotoff's chief objections to the British formula was its omission of specific guarantees for Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, Baltic countries close to Russia's northwestern frontier. There is some doubt as to whether he included Finland in this category, but it is known the Finns have expressed bitter opposition to their inclusion in any alliance with the Soviet.

British spokesmen explained the British formula was aimed at aggression, and it did not make any difference where it broke out, so long as it was in Europe. They said the three Baltic countries were included in the general terms of the pact, although they were not enumerated and there was no doubt that if any one of them was the victim of aggression and asked assistance, Great Britain and France would go to their aid.

However, Prime Minister Chamberlain, who had counted on announcing shortly the conclusion of a pact with Russia, today faced the prospect of strengthened opposition to his foreign policy in the June 5 gathering of Parliament.

Recent progress in the long negotiations had softened the opposition, clamoring for quick action in lining up Russian military might with that of Great Britain and France to bolster their new commitments in Europe.

NEW BARGAINING

WARSAW (AP)—Polish circles took a calm view today of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotoff's speech rejecting Anglo-French specifications for a mutual assistance alliance, one informant telling it an "obvious and not unexpected instrument of bargaining."

King Voices Thanks

Their Majesties Had Real Rest in Victoria, They Tell Lieut.-Governor

Their Majesties the King and Queen much enjoyed their visit to British Columbia in general and Victoria in particular, they advised the Lieut.-Governor, the Premier and the Mayor of Victoria, as they left the province for Alberta today.

The Royal Couple had a real rest in Victoria, the Lieut.-Governor was told. They advised the Mayor they were much impressed with the farewell in Victoria. The Premier was thanked for a program that enabled Their Majesties to see so many British Columbians.

Following are the messages from the Royal train:

To the Lieut.-Governor: "The Queen and I sincerely thank Mrs. Hamber and yourself for your kindness and hospitality. We have enjoyed a real rest and for both of us Government House will remain a pleasant and refreshing memory."

To Premier Pattullo: "As we are once more approaching the Rocky Mountains, Her Majesty and I send our heartfelt thanks to the people of British Columbia for the warmth of their welcome and to you for your hospitality and the skilful program which enabled us to see so many of the people of the province in the few days that we have been with you."

To Mayor McGavin: "We were deeply touched by our reception in Victoria and by the kindness of those who came to bid us farewell. The Queen and I thank you and your citizens from the bottom of our hearts and congratulate all those who were concerned with the admirable arrangements for the visit."

Each message was signed "George R.I."

The Lieut.-Governor and his wife received Royal gifts before the departure yesterday. His Honor and Mrs. Hamber were in Vancouver today.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hon. Ian MacKenzie, Minister of National Defence, who attended the King and Queen on their westward journey across British Columbia, said today he had received their personal congratulations for the military and naval units they saw in British Columbia. The congratulations were given by Their Majesties as Mr. MacKenzie said good-bye to them at New Westminster yesterday.

ROYAL AUDIENCE FOR VICTORIAN

Vivian Bagshawe Talks With Queen of War Days, Northland and Flowers

The only person in Victoria to have a private audience with Queen Elizabeth during her visit here was Vivian Bagshawe, who knew Her Majesty during the Great War.

Mr. Bagshawe was serving overseas and often visited the Queen's parents, the Earl and Countess of Strathmore, at their London home. There he met their daughter, Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon.

Her Majesty received Mr. Bagshawe in a Government House reception room Tuesday afternoon and for 10 minutes they chatted.

Mr. Bagshawe described Her Majesty as "very affable, very human," and said she very soon put him at his ease.

"She asked me what I was doing for a living. I said I was in the real estate business. She asked me how business was," he said.

"I showed Her Majesty some pictures of the north country—Alaska and Stewart, where I used to be. She was very interested in them, especially in some of a glacier 1,000 feet thick."

"She said: 'It must be a wonderful country.'"

"She told me she had admired the flowers here. There were almost none out when she left England, and very few in Ontario and Quebec."

"I told Her Majesty that I went out to Ten-Mile Point to see the Royal ship and the cruisers pass."

"It must have looked very

QUEEN MAY HAVE ISLAND IN GULF

Queen Elizabeth, charmed by the island-studded beauty of the Strait of Georgia, may be given one of the islands by the Government of British Columbia.

On her voyage to Vancouver yesterday aboard Ss. Prince Robert, Her Majesty is reported to have asked if she could buy an island somewhere between Victoria and Vancouver.

Premier Pattullo this morning heard of the Queen's question and said he would immediately see if there was a suitable island held by the Crown that might be deeded to Queen Elizabeth.

Pilot Train Carries Patient to Jasper

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Suffering from appendicitis, Mrs. T. Kennedy of Blue River was brought to Jasper today aboard the pilot train that carries newsmen and photographers accompanying King George and Queen Elizabeth on their Canadian visit.

Climbing the Pacific slope of the Rockies en route eastward, the pilot train stopped at Blue River to take Mrs. Kennedy aboard. She was accompanied by Dr. A. C. McCurrah.

A special permit was issued to permit Dr. McCurrah and his patient to board the pilot train and reach Jasper for medical attention and hospitalization ahead of other trains.

"It did," I said.
"Then she told me I saw the fires lit all along the coast and that was very pretty."

Permanent Air Base Is Opened At Esquimalt

Canadian Airways Is Planning Extensions To Its Operations

Flights to Seattle

Canadian Airways today established a permanent air base in Victoria.

The regular Victoria to Vancouver mail plane will in future be based at Esquimalt, instead of Vancouver, and the aircraft crew will reside in this city.

Simultaneously suitable equipment will be made available at Victoria for charter flying to Zeballos and other island points and to Seattle.

In an interview today, Superintendent Walter E. Gilbert of Canadian Airways Pacific division, said: "After a lapse of 10 years, Victoria has now come into her own as a centre for air transportation."

"When our company began the intercity airline between Victoria and Vancouver, March 1, we promised the people of Victoria that we would justify their support by an ever-improving service. Victoria's support has been amply evidenced in the fact that no less than 53 per cent of the total passengers carried in both directions originated in Victoria, and this despite the great difference in the populations of the two cities. So it is Victoria's own efforts which are making possible her new place in Canadian aviation. She will now be the point of origin of an intercity air service unequalled in Canada, as well as the seat of an air base, complete with servicing and radio facilities."

"Victoria's excellent hospital accommodation will now be immediately available to the isolated settlements of the west coast, and the uncertainty of travel over the Alberni Pass route in bad weather conditions will be eliminated from emergency hospital flights. We are glad to have been able to justify Victoria's confidence and believe this to be but the beginning of greater development to come."

Today the De Havilland plane inaugurated the summer schedule which gives three round trips daily except Sundays between Victoria and Vancouver. The schedule is as follows: Leave Victoria at 8 and 10 a.m. and 4:45 p.m.; leave Vancouver at 9 and 11:20 a.m. and 6:30 p.m.

On Sundays the 4:45 trip from Victoria and the 11:20 from Vancouver only will be flown.

Capone Failing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney-General Frank Murphy said today the mental condition of Al Capone is reported "not good by the doctors."

At his press conference the Attorney-General, who has just completed a trip to the west coast, was asked how Capone looked. "Fit," Mr. Murphy said. "He's brown and lean and hard and physically radiant with health."

Built at Devonport, H.M.S. Orion has a displacement of 7,215 tons, a length of 551 feet and draws 21 feet of water. Her main armament consists of eight 6-inch guns, eight 4-inch guns, four three-pounders and 18 smaller guns. She also is equipped with eight 21-inch quadruple torpedo tubes and carries two catapult airplanes. She is of the same class as the Leander, Achilles, Ajax and Neptune.

On June 12 the Orion will proceed to Nanaimo, where she will remain until June 16. She will be at Vancouver from June 16 to 24, Comox for musketry practice from June 24 to July 11 and at Seattle from July 12 to 17. She will be at San Diego, Calif., from July 21 to 26, and then proceed via the Panama Canal to Bermuda.

New Assistant B.C. Police Head Named

Inspector F. Cruickshanks, Vancouver, Given Appointment

Has Long Service

Inspector Forbes Cruickshanks, officer commanding "E" Division of the British Columbia Police, stationed at Vancouver, today was named assistant commissioner of the provincial force.

He succeeds T. W. S. Parsons who was recently named head of the force on the retirement of Col. J. H. McMullin.

Assistant Commissioner Cruickshanks will remain in Vancouver where he will retain command of the lower mainland division.

Born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1868, he served for a time with the Dundee police department before coming to Canada. In the Dominion he served with the fire and police departments of Winnipeg.

He joined the British Columbia Police in 1917, being stationed at Vancouver as a constable. The following year he was made acting chief constable of the B.C. Police district in Vancouver and January, 1920, this appointment was confirmed. With reorganization of the department he was made a sub-inspector in 1924 and the following year he became inspector.

In June, 1929, he was transferred to Nelson in charge of "B" Division and in November, 1932, he was returned to Vancouver. As officer in charge of the criminal investigation branch in Vancouver from 1924 to 1929 he took part in many leading criminal cases of British Columbia, the most notable being the famous Beryl G. hijacking mystery.

ALASKA VOLCANO SPREADS ASHES

Flames Rise 1,500 Feet From Craters Of Mt. Veniaminof

PERRYVILLE, Alaska (AP)—Erupting Mount Veniaminof shot flames, smoke and ashes skyward in a spectacular display today, and United States coast-guard officials reported a change of wind would create a "dangerous situation" for this Alaska Peninsula settlement.

Most of the residents were away fishing, however, and the coastguard cutter Morris was standing by to give aid if necessary.

"Veniaminof is in continuous eruption," Capt. Stanley Parker said in a message, "sending ashes at least 20,000 feet into the air. Flames rise to great heights, possibly 1,500 feet."

The volcano, which became active May 23, now has two distinct craters, both belching flames.

The eruption has covered the countryside with ashes averaging one to two inches thick for a radius of 20 miles.

Capt. Parker reported the Morris detected volcanic dust 100 miles at sea, while en route here from Bristol Bay.

The return call will be made by Capt. Kinahan at 11:30 tomorrow morning.

Other official calls to be made tomorrow will be as follows: Brigadier J. C. Stewart, D.O.C., Military District No. 11, at 10; Mayor Andrew McGavin at 10:30 and Premier T. D. Pattullo at 10:50.

Capt. Kinahan will pay return calls to the D.O.C. at noon, the Mayor at 12:20 and the Premier at 12:30.

New British Submarine Disappears in Test Dive

Japanese Hold 2 Britons in China

Tension Grows When Lieutenant Missing in Addition to Colonel

SHANGHAI (AP)—British-Japanese tension increased Thursday as British embassy officials disclosed they feared a second British diplomatic officer was detained by the Japanese army in north China.

The officer, Lieutenant Cooper, left Peiping May 28 to investigate the detention by Japanese at Kalgan of Lieutenant-Colonel Spear, British military attaché in China. British officials believed Spear was held to give Japanese an opportunity to examine maps of Chinese-controlled areas which he had gathered.

Further difficulty in British-Japanese relations arose in Tientsin when Japanese military officials handed the British consul-general there a demand giving him until noon, June 7, to hand over a Chinese alleged to have killed Cheng Shi-Kang, commissioner of the Japanese-controlled customs administration, in the British concession last April.

The British contention is that no evidence has been produced to link the man in custody with the slaying.

H.M.S. Orion Here From Bermuda

British Cruiser Will Spend 12 Days at Esquimalt; Navy Week

Paying her first call here, H.M.S. Orion reached Victoria early this afternoon—from the Bermuda station.

The British light cruiser, with a complement of 40 officers and 350 men, will participate in the Navy Week celebrations which start on June 9.

Rounding Race Rocks at the noon hour, the Orion was warped to her berth at the Esquimalt dockyard jetty at 1:30.

The warship came here from San Francisco, where her crew was entertained at the Golden Gate fair.

There was no demonstration to mark the arrival of the Orion. She slipped silently alongside the jetty and was made fast by Canadian naval ratings from the dockyard.

This afternoon, Capt. G. Broder, R.C.N., captain-in-charge of the Esquimalt naval establishment, boarded the Orion to pay his respects to Capt. H. R. Kinahan, R.N., commander of the British cruiser.

The return call will be made by Capt. Kinahan at 11:30 tomorrow morning.

Other official calls to be made tomorrow will be as follows: Brigadier J. C. Stewart, D.O.C., Military District No. 11, at 10; Mayor Andrew McGavin at 10:30 and Premier T. D. Pattullo at 10:50.

Hitler Scored By Outlaw Radio

Secret Station Urges Reich People Join And End Militarism

WARSAW (CP—Havas)—Polish newspapers today reported a secret German radio station was heard throughout eastern Europe for the first time last night with a violent attack against "Hitler militarism."

The new station was reported to represent "the German Liberty Front" and unidentified speakers appeal to all "truly German organizations and all German patriots to adhere to the new front against Hitler militarism, against slavery and blind obedience."

THREE NEAR DEATH AFTER EXPLOSION

31 in Hospital In Barberton, Ohio, Where School Destroyed

BARBERTON, O. (AP)—Two small children and a janitor were given scarcely a fighting chance today to survive injuries received when an explosion, apparently caused by gas, demolished a makeshift frame school building.

Doctors described as serious the condition of four others, including a teacher. Thirty-one of the 57 injured were confined in hospitals.

The blast occurred at mid-afternoon yesterday, blowing out walls and buckling the floors of the two-story, eight-room structure, a residence converted last fall into a temporary school for first to fifth grade pupils.

Those near death were first-graders Dorothy Young, six, and Frances Fisher, seven, both injured about the head and body, and P. S. White, 59, janitor, critically burned.

"Seriously hurt were Ray Clemens, seven, internal injuries; Lucinda Williams, seven, negro, burns; Mary Mattingly, seven, possible skull fracture, and Miss Mabelle Miller, 38, 1-B teacher, fractured leg and ribs and possible internal injuries.

The state department of industrial relations opened an investigation of the tragedy, reminding of the 1937 New London, Texas, school blast in which 297 school children and teachers met death. The U.S. bureau of mines ordered two chemical engineers who have specialized in gas to investigate.

Anti-propaganda Move in Alberta

Legion Urges Governments End Foreigners' Efforts

EDMONTON (CP)—Urging the Dominion and Alberta governments to take "necessary steps" to end activities of persons disseminating "anti-British propaganda," a resolution was passed unanimously here today at the annual convention of the Alberta command of the Canadian Legion.

Two other motions protesting distributing of "alien" propaganda in the province were adopted.

The provincial government also will be asked to formulate the curriculum in all schools in this province so the minds of our youth may be guided into channels of thought that will inculcate into their minds an intense loyalty to King, country and Empire.

Request that the war veterans allowance board "consider more favorably" the recommendations made by legion investigators, was contained in another resolution.

Thetis and Crew Missing 50 Miles From Birkenhead

LONDON (AP)—All available warships in the vicinity were ordered to search for the new British submarine Thetis today when she failed to reappear after a test dive and the tug accompanying her reported "something is amiss."

The 1,095-ton craft was "a few hours overdue" when the Admiralty ordered a search for the ship, whose normal complement was 53 men.

The construction company said 20 members of its staff were aboard as well as a number of Admiralty experts who went along to observe test trials off Birkenhead.

EXPERIENCED COMMANDER The Thetis, which cost about $1,638,000, was commanded by Lieut.-Comdr. G. H. Bolus, who previously had commanded the Shark and other classes of submarines.

The Thetis left Birkenhead at 10 a.m., British summer time (1 a.m., P.S.T.).

"We're taking adequate measures," he stated, adding there was a "great deal" more espionage on the west coast than ever before.

Edmonton Ready For Royal Visit

Visitors for Tomorrow's Events Expected To Total 100,000

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton's Royal visit committee completed its work today and looked for bright weather to make the welcome to King George and Queen Elizabeth tomorrow the greatest event in the 140-year-old history of the one-time fur trading outpost.

Every train and bus coming into the city brought visitors from near and far but tomorrow morning, the real influx will start. More than a score of trains will bring an estimated 35,000 to 40,000 people into the city.

A total of 100,000 visitors is expected to more than double Edmonton's normal population of 89,000. Hotel and lodging house accommodation is at a premium. Most of the visitors, who arrive Friday morning, however, will leave for home at night.

Their Majesties are scheduled to arrive here aboard the Royal train from Jasper at 3.30 p.m. They will leave for Saskatoon at 10 p.m., and spend the night aboard the Royal train at a secret siding along the way.

Names Added to Murder Ring's Toll

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—With nearly 50 known deaths already recorded, 15 new names were added today to the roll of possible victims of a syndicate accused of wholesale murders in eastern states for insurance money.

Investigators expressed belief the 15 persons—like many other victims—were heavily insured by the syndicate or its "clients," then fed a poison compound.

German-Danish Pact Made Public

BERLIN (AP)—Publication of the brief German-Danish non-aggression pact today showed that both countries had been left a free hand in commercial relations with other nations in case of war. The treaty, to last 10 years, was signed yesterday.

Freedom in wartime trade was interpreted as a departure from Nazidom's previous tendency to insist that any country with which Germany concluded a mutual nonaggression accord must not trade with states in conflict with her.

Lively Scenes At Commons Bren Inquiry

But All End in Laughter as McGeer Questions Drew

Lee Enfield Discussion

OTTAWA (CP)—Major J. E. Hahn, head of the John Inglis Company of Toronto which obtained a government order for 7,000 Bren machine guns, was highly recommended as to solvency and integrity by the Bank of Montreal, G. G. McGeer, Liberal, Vancouver-Burrard, told the Commons' public accounts committee today.

During his continued examination of Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader whose magazine article last September criticizing the contract brought on a Royal commission inquiry, Mr. McGeer accused the author of "absolute falsehood" in his statements on the company's financial set-up.

Col. Drew said the bank's recommendation was made on information from Major Hahn. "I have ceased to expect any courtesy from you," he said when Mr. McGeer accused him of making a false statement.

CLASHES AND LAUGHTER

There were several clashes involving numerous members of the committee, but all ended in laughter, particularly when Rev. T. C. Douglas, C.C.F., Weyburn, Sask., invited a member who had said "shut up" to "come out in the corridor and say it."

W. H. Taylor, Liberal, Norfolk, Ont., said he had remarked to his neighbor that "the preacher should shut up" but that he had not meant to go on the record.

Col. Drew declared 76 per cent of the Inglis stock was "pure water" and was ultimately saleable to the public.

Most of the forenoon session was devoted to Mr. McGeer's presentation of documentary evidence placed before the Davis Royal commission, which he repeated in answer to Col. Drew's charges.

No new model Lee Enfield rifle has been manufactured since the Great War and the British army still is equipped with the standard Lee Enfield used in the Great War, Mr. McGeer said.

Col. Drew said yesterday that the Canadian militia carried rifles that were obsolete and it had not a single modern rifle.

Mr. McGeer said the British army was entirely armed with wartime rifles. "Have you any suggestions to make to that?" "I suggest your information is wrong," said Col. Drew. "There is a new Lee Enfield rifle now being produced in England and the general staff in Canada wanted to manufacture it here."

Col. Drew said the committee had heard no witnesses from the general staff and should call them for detailed evidence on this point.

HAHN'S TESTIMONY

Major J. E. Hahn (head of the Inglis Company) testified here that such an inspection was made," Mr. McGeer said. "Don't you accept his evidence?" "I don't accept Hahn's statement on anything."

"When did you develop this respect of Hahn's word?" "When I heard the evidence before the Davis commission."

(After Col. Drew had published a magazine article last September attacking the Canadian Government's contract with the Inglis plant for 7,000 machine guns, the contract was investigated by a Royal commission headed by Mr. Justice H. H. Davis of the Supreme Court of Canada).

GIFTS OF BOOKS

Mr. McGeer drew from the witness that he and Major Hahn had exchanged books of their own authorship some years ago and drew attention to the inscription "sincerely yours" Col. Drew placed in his gift to Hahn.

"We have been disillusioned before now," Col. Drew said. "And you tore off his decorations." Mr. McGeer declared, referring to the fact that the Drew article named Hahn without listing the medals he won in the Great War.

Col. Drew replied that it was not customary to list a man's decorations in a nonmilitary article. "And this was not a military article. It was a political article," Mr. McGeer suggested. "It was an article written to bring before the people of Canada one of the greatest abuses that exists under the system of obtaining munitions," Col. Drew said.

"Col. Drew," Mr. McGeer said, "you are not an impartial witness. You were paid to write this article. You were paid to prosecute the Defence Department. You said yesterday this was an abominable contract and that went out in headlines all across Canada. Now I want you to answer me 'yes' or 'no'."

"You are paid by the people of Canada to be here," Col. Drew replied, "but that does not detract from your right to conduct this examination."

DEBATE OFFERS

There followed a loud clamor of interruption from committee members during which Mr. McGeer and Col. Drew exchanged challenges for debates on public platforms in Toronto and Vancouver.

When Howard C. Green, Conservative, Vancouver South, and Karl Homuth, Conservative, Waterloo South, Ont., attempted to enter the argument on Col. Drew's behalf, Mr. McGeer declared: "Col. Drew is quite able to take care of himself."

To Mr. Green he said: "I am inclined to think you are a small-town lawyer, even if we are both from Vancouver."

Mr. McGeer read a letter from H. F. Skey, Toronto manager of the Bank of Montreal, written during early negotiation of the Bren contract, highly recommending Major Hahn from a banker's standpoint.

"I am afraid that letter leaves me with the same impression of some bankers that you have displayed on some occasions," Col. Drew said. "It conveyed an impression that was not justified at that time."

"After all, the Bank of Montreal is a fine institution," Mr. McGeer said.

"They will be glad to hear that from you," Col. Drew interjected.

"If you think I have any idea our merchant banks are untruthful I want to deny it right now, and to dissociate myself from the smirch you have placed on Canadian bankers," Mr. McGeer exclaimed.

"That is a good speech," Col. Drew retorted, "but it has nothing to do with this issue. The statement is not false, but the banker replied on statements by Major Hahn."

SOURCES OF INFORMATION

"When investigating a manufacturing plant do you know any better place to go than the firm's bankers and Dun and Bradstreet?" Mr. McGeer asked.

"I do so."

"Where is that?" "I would suggest the thing that was asked for—a financial statement—prepared by a chartered accountant."

Mr. McGeer went into evidence before the Davis commission covering the formation of the reorganized Inglis Company and the financial set-up and clashed with the witness over the figures as to the amount of money put into it by the promoters.

He said some of Col. Drew's statements on the method of financing were "absolutely false."

Col. Drew said the financial set-up of the company was "an interesting case of stock watering" and declared 76 per cent of the stock was "pure water" and was ultimately saleable to the public.

BRIEF PAUSES BY ROYAL TRAIN

Only Service Stops On Kamloops-Jasper Trip Through Mountains

ALBRED, B.C.—The train carrying the King and Queen to Jasper National Park reached this town at 7.35 this morning and left again at 7.39 a.m. after a service stop.

(Albred is west of Jasper Park and 41 miles north of Blue River).

BLUE RIVER, B.C. (CP)—The Royal train carrying King George and Queen Elizabeth eastward after their visit to the British Columbia coast left this railway town on the north Thompson River, 150 miles northeast of Kamloops at 6.10 this morning after a 10-minute service stop.

The train did not pass through Kamloops proper, being checked over at Kamloops Junction nearby. An aged Indian couple and their son stood silently on a platform beside the Royal coach while the train was there.

During the night the silver and blue train passed through the Fraser Canyon. This morning it sped into the Rocky Mountains on the last stage of its trip into Alberta through Jasper National Park.

PAIR HELD AFTER LONG AUTO DRIVE

Police at Kamloops Charge Man With Jailbreak at Halifax

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—British Columbia Police held a man here today they said was wanted for jailbreak at Halifax and expressed belief his arrest ended a 20-day dash across the continent in a stolen car with defaced license plates.

Taken into custody with a woman at Merritt Wednesday, the man gave his name as John Charles Bevis and the woman said she was Lucille Perrin.

Bevis is sought by Nova Scotia authorities for escaping May 11 from the Rockhead prison at Halifax, where he was serving a 51-month sentence after conviction on charges of assaulting a policeman, violation of the Liquor Control Act and two violations of the Excise Act.

Police said the man told them of driving from Halifax to Sault Ste. Marie and from there across the United States. Earlier this week, he and his companion were en route to Princeton, B.C., and Alberta from Vancouver when they stopped at Merritt to have the car repaired.

Constable J. V. Boys, who made the arrests after receiving instructions from provincial police headquarters here, said he did not encounter any resistance. Halifax police descriptions had said the man was "dangerous."

In Vancouver, Inspector J. Frappa of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said he had advised Nova Scotia Mounted Police of the arrests and had asked the man be escorted east.

SENATE AMENDS TAXATION BILL

Commons Accepts Change, But Reaffirms Its Money Rights

OTTAWA (CP)—With reservations and protest, the House of Commons today permitted the Senate to amend a taxation bill, thus renewing a long-standing controversy between the two Houses of Parliament.

As Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Justice Minister, described the issue, the Senate admits the Lower House has the exclusive power to initiate taxation and money bills, but claims for itself the right to amend such legislation. The House disputes this claim.

Some day, he said, the question would have to be settled, but as it was too late in the session for a constitutional debate, the House, at Mr. Lapointe's suggestion, accepted the Senate amendment with a declaration of its rights so that no precedent would be created.

Both Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Revenue Minister, and Mr. Lapointe said serious objection was not taken to the merits of the Senate amendment. It merely provided that one of several changes in the income tax law should apply first to 1939 income instead of 1938 income. It did, however, affect the financial scheme of the law and the amount of money it would produce.

"The action of the Senate," said Mr. Lapointe, "is inconsistent with the undeniable control of the elected representatives of the people over all financial matters."

Mr. Ilsley introduced the amendment proposed by the Senate, explaining that it eliminated the retroactive feature of an exemption of interest on succession duties from income tax. The exemption was to apply to one year's income, starting with 1938, but the Senate changed this to 1939.

Blame Rumors for Lack of Visitors

Publicity Bureau and Mayor of Victoria Tried to Discount False Stories

The Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, at its meeting yesterday, said it had taken every effort to discount rumors circulating in Pacific Northwest cities before the King and Queen came to Victoria that there would be a food shortage here during the Royal Visit and that charges for grandstand seats and sleeping accommodation would be exorbitant.

George I. Warren, managing secretary, told the members he had done everything possible to refute these rumors in Seattle, Portland and Tacoma. He read to the board statements he had given to the Seattle press a few weeks ago, in which such rumors were vigorously denied.

The stories still persisted, he said, and many people were discouraged by them from coming to the city at the time of the Royal Visit.

The Bureau wrote Seattle hotels, which were said to be advising visitors from coming to Victoria, and told that, even if the local hotels were full, there was plenty of accommodation in private homes.

The Bureau wrote Seattle hotels, which were said to be advising visitors from coming to Victoria, and told that, even if the local hotels were full, there was plenty of accommodation in private homes.

Mayor McGavin, in an interview at his office yesterday, said malicious propaganda in Vancouver and Seattle gave the impression that food would be scarce and hotel rates excessively high.

"Not long ago I was assured by the Empress Hotel and other leading hostilities that accommodation would be at a premium during the visit of Their Majesties. I tried to find several rooms for Mayor Angelo Rosi and party and R. W. Beck, Seattle, and associates, but was informed they might have to rely on private homes," Mayor McGavin said.

On Sunday night the Mayor stated over a CBR hook-up: "For the benefit of those who are listening in and who might be contemplating paying a visit to Victoria, I might mention that hotel accommodation is at a premium, but many private homes are available to take in guests. Any hotel in the city will gladly give full information. We realize that Victoria will have more visitors than ever before, but we do not anticipate any difficulty in catering for all who desire to come."

The Mayor also regretted that many schoolchildren from up-island were unable to see Their Majesties at the naval ceremony in Beacon Hill Park.

He said he was sorry it had not been arranged to take the King and Queen on a tour of the park. He recalled that original civic plans were for a schoolchildren's ceremony in MacDonald Park, but this affair had been cut from the program by the interdepartmental committee on the Royal Visit at Ottawa.

5,000 Germans From Poland in Danzig

BERLIN (CP-Havas)—More than 5,000 German residents of Poland have sought refuge in Danzig, according to the Danziger Vorposten.

"Most of them," the article stated, "are without any resources and have come not only from the (Polish) Corridor, but also from Posen and even the interior of Poland. Most of them are in great misery and their statements show that Germans are deprived of all protection everywhere in Poland."

Forest Worker's Death Declared Accident

FERNIE, B.C. (CP)—Verdict of accidental death was returned last night by the coroner's jury which investigated the death of Ralph Pingleton, found injured in timber limits of the J. Wilson Lumber Co. May 25 after he had been reported missing for several hours.

The jury added a rider recommending that a system be adopted requiring that employees—practically all of whom are on contract basis—should report going on and coming off shift, since under the present practice no check on men working by day is kept.

Adopting the timekeeping system would prevent an indefinite delay in instituting investigation when anyone was missing, the jury foreman said.

China Town Raided

FOOCHOW, China (AP)—Mission reports Thursday from Putien, southwest of Foochow, said the town was bombed again Wednesday by 18 Japanese planes. The raiders were said to have avoided hitting mission property already damaged. The American Methodist Church, girls' school, girls' dormitory and foreign teachers' residence were wrecked last Thursday.

COMMONS SPEEDS VOTING OF FUNDS

Estimates Totalling $23,628,117 Put Through; Building Plans

OTTAWA (CP)—Estimates occupied the House a large part of yesterday's sittings. With only incidental discussion, fisheries and public works estimates were voted totalling $23,628,117.

Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Works Minister, steered his estimates easily through the House until he came to a long list of building projects scattered across the country and that precipitated a home-spun blast from David Spence, Conservative, Toronto-Parkdale, against the "carelessness and indifference" of governments in spending money.

What was needed, was a little of the same sort of common sense as ordinary business had to apply to its affairs if it was not going to go bankrupt, Mr. Spence asserted. The Post Office and the Works Department were the worst offenders, he said.

Olof Hanson, Liberal, Skeena suggested the purpose of the Works Department was not to be a profit-making branch of government but to assist in the development of the country, to do something for the nation.

John R. MacNicol, Conservative, Toronto-Davenport, termed the procedure on works estimates a "farce." He advocated detailed examination of building projects by an interparty committee.

MORTGAGE BANK WILL BENEFIT MANY

Committee Reports Measure to Commons After Study

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's bill to incorporate the Central Mortgage Bank will be reported back to the House of Commons from the banking and commerce committee unchanged in any of its essential provisions and unaltered in any matter deemed vital by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Finance Minister. The committee finished its work on the bill this forenoon.

The bank incorporation measure, estimated by Mr. Dunning to cost the Dominion between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000, will next go into committee stage in the Commons and thence to the Senate, where the debate may be protracted.

Thousands of Canadian farm and home owners who owe mortgages to trust, loan or insurance companies stand to benefit from the measure. And no provincial legislation stands in the way of its operation in any province.

Mortgages owing to individuals or to companies not choosing to become members of the Central Mortgage Bank, or ineligible to do so, will not be directly affected by the legislation, but the Finance Minister expects great things from the measure in the way of a general reduction in all mortgage rates.

General principles of the legislation as it affects farm mortgages are—elimination of all interest arrears more than two years overdue, incorporation of the immediate two years' overdue interest into the principal, adjustment of the principal sum so as not to exceed 80 per cent of the farm's appraisal value, the mortgage to be extended to 20 years from the date of revision at 5 per cent.

Mortgages on nonfarm homes would be affected similarly, except that the extension of the mortgage is a matter for agreement and that the interest rate is to be 5 1/2 per cent.

Examples of how particular cases where the mortgage is directly affected would work out are:

(a) A farmer has property appraised for $8,000 in the light of present conditions. There is a mortgage of $8,000 at 7 per cent with four years' arrears of interest, making his present obligation $9,280. Under the act the mortgage would be reduced by eliminating two years' interest—$640—and then further adjusting the principal, including the other two years' interest arrears, so it would not exceed 80 per cent of the appraisal value. The mortgage is now for 20 years at $6,400 and interest is reduced to 5 per cent.

(b) A city worker has a home appraised at $3,000, with a mortgage of $2,000 at 7 per cent. He is two years in arrears of interest—$420—so his obligation is $2,420. His mortgage will be reduced to 80 per cent of $3,000, which is $2,400, and his interest will be reduced to 5 1/2 per cent a year. The term of the mortgage may or may not be extended. It will be a matter for agreement.

Five Italian Fliers Killed

ROME (AP)—The air ministry announced today that five airmen were killed in the crash of a military airplane Monday near Pavia. Cause of the accident has not been determined.

Audience Likes Court Pageant

Girls' Drill Team Draws Merited Applause In Colorful Show

Spontaneous applause greeted the spectacular presentation last evening of a replica of a royal court pageant to a crowd of 600 in the Willows Park Auditorium.

The program was given under the auspices of the tourist group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. The beautiful gowns worn by "Miss Victoria" and her attendants, and the color schemes of other costumes, combined to make the show an enjoyable one for the appreciative audience.

A colorful opening presented "Miss Victoria" (Kay White), accompanied by her ladies-in-waiting (Doreen McGregor and Jean Wilson) and pretty young misses acting as flower girls and page boys. Miss Victoria was escorted to the royal dais by her smart-stepping guard of honor, the Victoria Girls' Drill Team, with all the dignity and solemnity of a real royal court procession.

After "Her Majesty" was seated on her throne, the court herald stepped forward and in solemn tones said: "Your most gracious majesty, may I present for your approval..."

And before the eyes of the queen, her court and the audience there was unfolded a fine variety program.

Holding the spotlight during the evening was the girls' drill unit, resplendent in white satin skirts and blouses, white boots and gauntlets; red, white and blue shakos and capes. They executed eight smart marching drills during the show, taking the floor after each number by assisting groups. Miss Flossie Hughes capably handled the task of director of the team in the absence of Norman Foster, who was unable to attend owing to illness. Miss Hughes is team captain. Their every appearance on the floor drew well-deserved rounds of applause from the on-lookers.

The little miss who won her way into the hearts of the audience was three-year-old Beverly Sanderson, who sang two popular songs: "In a Little Old Dutch Garden" and "Funny Old Hills." Other numbers featuring "tiny tots, all of which were well received, were the gypsy dance by June Day and Patsy Sparks, a military tap by Kenneth and Walter Gray, an exhibition by the Royal Tappers, June Day, Joan Sidwell, Patsy Sparks and Joan Sidwell, and a Russian dance by Anne Collison, Ina Marie Salmon, Margaret Jean Angus, Sheila Beckwith, Margaret Bracken, Peggy Woodhouse, Joan Griffiths and Lorraine Stocker. All the above youngsters were members of the Russian Ballet School.

Other numbers included a polished tumbling performance by a team of Y.M.C.A. experts under the direction of Lenny Oliver and including Valeria Bate, three-year-old, a hand-balancing and contortionist dancing exhibition by Mattie Griffin and Larry Moore and a moonlight ballet by 14 senior members of the Russian Ballet School.

George MacDonald, chairman of the tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the girls' drill squad, announced that the purpose of the show was to raise funds to send the team south to the San Francisco Exposition this summer. He intimated that the show would be repeated this month.

Margaret Jefferies, Beverly Bark and Corrine Moore acted as "Miss Victoria's" flower girls and Norma Dunn and Jacqueline Le Huquet were page boys. Mary Patterson was court herald.

OFFICIAL SECRETS BILL PASSED

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate gave third reading yesterday without discussion to the bill respecting Official Secrets. Senator W. A. Griesbach, Conservative, Alberta, suggested the section which empowers a superintendent of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, in an emergency, to issue an order for a search warrant, be amended to give that authority to inspectors of the R.C.M.P. He did not, however, press it as an amendment.

The bill amending the Income Tax Act to bring it into line with the changes contemplated by the budget, the act authorizing the government to borrow up to $750,000,000 and the bill amending the Gold Clause Obligations Act were all given third reading.

3 Die in Crossing Crash

LONDON (AP)—Three persons were killed and about a dozen others injured when a London-bound train and a straw-laden truck collided today at a crossing. The sides of two coaches were ripped out. The truck driver escaped with a broken arm.

U.S. CONGRESS MAY ADJOURN IN JULY

Neutrality Legislation Most Controversial Of Remaining Subjects

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of the Democratic and Republican parties in the United States Congress were agreed today neutrality legislation alone stands in the way of adjournment by July 15.

With a big question mark hovering over this controversial subject, Democratic chieftains concentrated on four other major items aside from the regular appropriation bills:

1. Corporate tax revision, which the House of Representatives will take up again tomorrow.

2. Relief appropriations for the next fiscal year, awaiting action by a House appropriations subcommittee.

3. Amendments liberalizing the Social Security Act, on which the ways and means committee has nearly completed action.

4. Railroad aid bills, awaiting final action by both Houses.

One informed senator said President Roosevelt told legislative leaders yesterday he would like to have the neutrality law revised at this session, but early adjournment would be preferable to a long-drawn fight over the issue.

On the Prairies

Death Strikes Family Again

CALGARY—Tragedy that has dogged the C. W. Stout family, struck again yesterday when the head of the family, Charles W. Stout, 62, died from injuries 24 hours after he was struck by a car while riding his bicycle.

Harry G. Wilmut, city auto salesman, is free on bail of $1,000 on a charge of causing grievous bodily harm to Stout by willful misconduct driving an auto. Twice previously had sudden death robbed the Stout family of members. A son died suddenly two years ago, and several months ago, another boy, Leo Stout, 20, died in hospital as result of a shooting accident.

FOOTBALLERS HURT

EDMONTON—Gordon Cloves of Turner Valley was among six persons injured when an automobile crashed through a railway crossing guard railing here last night. Cloves suffered only minor injuries. More seriously hurt were Louis Rimstad and Don McGreevey, members of the Edmonton Eskimo football team.

LIGHT SHOWERS

CALGARY—Light showers fell in this district Tuesday night, but the sun was shining brightly again yesterday. The outlook in High River district was brightened by rain last night and this morning. High winds had made it difficult to spread "hopper bait" effectively before the rainfall.

Medicine Hat also reported rain yesterday, bringing to an end a week of bright sunny weather that had graced the Royal Visit.

DOG POISONING

CALGARY—Police said today six Calgary dogs, some of them valuable, had been poisoned here in the last few days. They are investigating.

HOPE FOR RAIN

LETHBRIDGE—Overcast skies in Southern Alberta gave farmers hope today that another general rainstorm was in the offing. Tuesday night scattered showers were reported at several South Alberta points with a good rain at Nanton and north of Aldersyde. A light sprinkle fell in the city in the morning.

King Sends Message Of Thanks to R.C.M.P.

VANCOUVER (CP)—King George yesterday wrote to Commissioner S. T. Wood of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, expressing their Majesties' sincere thanks for their service and "our high appreciation of the manner in which they discharged their duty on all occasions."

His Majesty said he was very proud to be honorary commissioner of the R.C.M.P., a force that for many years has been famous throughout the world.

It was a genuine pleasure, he said, to be able to visit "your barracks, the training ground of the splendid body of men who are today maintaining in all parts of Canada the great traditions of the force."

New United States Treasury Official

WASHINGTON (AP)—Herbert E. Gaston of Oregon and New York was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be an assistant secretary of the Treasury.

Gaston, who has been serving as a special assistant to Secretary Morgenthau, would succeed Wayne Taylor, fiscal assistant secretary, who resigned about six months ago.

King's Cattle Win Prizes

GUARD REFUGEES AGAINST SUICIDE

German Liner Delayed At Havana While Jews Beg Leave to Land

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Captain Gustav Schroeder announced today postponement of the departure of the German liner Saint Louis in the hope permission could be obtained to land 917 German Jewish passengers who have been denied entrance to Cuba.

The vessel had been scheduled to start back to Germany this afternoon.

Police in launches and aboard the ship meanwhile kept close guard at the request of the captain, who said he feared a series of suicide attempts among the passengers.

The ship's representative was instructed to deliver a memorandum signed by women and children aboard the Saint Louis to the wife of President Frederico Laredo Bru, requesting her aid in seeking permission for all to land.

One refugee slashed his wrists and jumped overboard Tuesday. He was rescued, but Capt. Gustav Schroeder informed authorities he feared a "collective suicide pact" was being considered and declared that a "state of mutiny" might result if he were forced to take the Jews back to Germany.

They were refused permission to land when they could not show Cuban consular visas, passports and Cuban labor department permits. They carried only provisional permits of the immigration department to land as travelers en route to the United States, where they hoped to gain admission later.

Archaeologists in Egypt recently found a nobleman's tomb in which a full feast was spread out on dishes, many of the foods still identified after 5,000 years.

Nudity Contest Ended By Police

NEW YORK (AP)—A rapid audience was gazing on four unwrapped young women in a nudity contest at the World's Fair last night when police ordered the beauties to don some clothes and charged two of them with "indecent and lewd exposure."

The other two got off with a lecture because careful scrutiny disclosed they were wearing brassieres in addition to cobwebby nether garments.

Photographers and reporters were on hand for the arrest, timed to theatrical perfection. It came after the crowd had had a good look at the girls and before interest had waned.

Marge Berk and a girl known simply as Dolores face the misdemeanor charge. Ann Wilson and the statuesque Lois de Fee, sisters of the brassiere, went free. The four had been chosen by the shows in the fair amusement area as their entrants of the title of "Sally Rand's Successor—the nude of 1939."

Sheriff Maurice Fitzgerald and his men intervened just after the girls had paraded around the arena for judgment of "form." The "beauty" and "grace" divisions never were reached, so it was called no contest.

Planes Rapidly Added To British Navy

LONDON (CP)—The fleet air arm, which was made independent of the Air Ministry and attached to the Admiralty, May 24, will soon have a strength of 700 first-line planes, plus reserve craft, sources close to the aeronautics industry revealed today. There are two principal models in service. One is the pursuit bomber "Skua," whose special job is to drop bombs or torpedoes in power dives.

The other main model is the pursuit plane "Roc," an all-metal monoplane, armed with a revolving gun turret which carries several machine guns.

Big California Area Swept By Fire

COLUMA, Calif. (AP)—A 40,000-acre fire which had raged over western Colusa County since Tuesday, was believed under control today after hundreds of firefighters had fought to save two settlements and ranch houses in its path.

Beginning six miles west of Siles, 20 miles northwest of here, the wind-fanned flames spread out over a 20-mile front, threatening Leesville and Lodoga for a time.

Reports said damage to grain and pasture was heavy, and thousands of acres of brush in foothill areas were blackened.

Two ranch homes were reported burned.

Russia Suspicious

IF NAZI GERMANY AND FASCIST ITALY feel like crowing over the fact that Anglo-French plans to bring Soviet Russia into the "Stop Hitler" bloc have met with a temporary reverse, nobody will have the least objection. In some quarters in Berlin we are told there is still the belief that a British-French-Russian treaty eventually will be signed, but, according to one optimistic official, it will be "so watered down that it will be meaningless." Anti-democratic wishful thinking in Rome would appear to be summed up by Il Messaggero's headline announcing that "brutal Soviet frankness causes democratic delusions to crumble."

Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini naturally assume any new development calculated to deflect what they choose to call the "encirclement" policy of Great Britain and France. During the course of the negotiations, especially between Downing Street and Moscow, they betrayed a species of nervousness which surprised nobody who had followed the course of events in Europe since the British government grudgingly realized that the Chamberlain policy of appeasement would lead only to disaster. For it is now plain that ever that the axis partners will feel secure of their hold on their own peoples only so long as they are able to demonstrate capacity for delivering further spoils, not necessarily immediately, but when circumstances are propitious. But as soon as Russia appends her signature—assuming the present deadlock will be successfully circumvented—to a practical working alliance with Great Britain and France, the "Mein Kampf" program of Hitler will have to be pigeonholed, and Mussolini's dream of the Mediterranean becoming an Italian lake will be followed by a rude awakening.

That school of diplomatic thought which is carefully watching the play between Moscow and London—recognizing that the Soviet is served by advisers able to drive as good a bargain as Britain wants to drive—will smile on the Nazi suggestion that the eventual treaty will be "so watered down that it will be meaningless." Every move the Russian government has made, of course, has been based on the idea that the only effective agreement into which the three nations should enter is one which will give absolute military protection to all those countries likely to fall prey to the schemes of the two totalitarian states. For as far as can be judged by what the general public has been told about the negotiations, what it has observed for itself from the reaction in various capitals, Russia is still not quite satisfied that the government at Downing Street has totally abandoned its appeasement policy. To make sure of it, therefore, Vyacheslav Molotov's speech yesterday was obviously meant to extract from Great Britain more definite assurances than evidently had been given previously.

What M. Molotov asks for, of course, is a common front of all peaceful nations—provided it be an effective front. He is just as insistent that measures are necessary for combatting aggression as Maxim Litvinoff was. For example, he acknowledges that Britain and France are agreeable to an understanding "on the basis of reciprocity in the event of direct attack by aggressors," and he declares that this was a "step forward," but "hedged around by such reservations" that it might prove "a fictitious step forward." It is these reservations on which he wants Great Britain and France to shed more light—what they are prepared to do about support for the three countries on the northwestern borders of the Soviet republic. M. Molotov suggests the two democracies think only of those nations to whom they have given guarantees, whereas he implies that an effective front would have to include countries geographically vulnerable.

Indications in London today, however, are that negotiations between the British, French and Russian governments will be resumed. But they suggest regret that Prime Minister Chamberlain will not be able to announce complete agreement on the reassembling of Parliament next Monday—which he had hoped to do. The government must realize by this time that the British public is becoming impatient over the delay in reaching an accord, that the three-nation alliance is urgently necessary if the "Stop Hitler" bloc is to put an end to totalitarian aggression, and remove the danger of war.

Port Angeles' Welcome

ACROSS THE STRAITS OF JUAN DE Fuca on Tuesday night the citizens of the United States city of Port Angeles paid their tribute to King George and Queen Elizabeth. They imparted a touch to the program of the Royal Visit to this outpost of Empire which meant more than the friendly regard and esteem in which communities on both sides of the 49th parallel along the unguarded frontier naturally hold one another. The rockets they sent up into the skies for Their Majesties to see were visible reminders of these ties of friendship. And we may take that manifestation by the people of Port Angeles as a foretaste of what may be expected when the Royal pair enter the United States next week.

Germany's Old Ally Uneasy

WHILE THE "STOP HITLER" BLOC seems to be gaining steadily in force and universal approval, there is a spot in the old Balkan trouble zone where intensely nationalistic peoples—and these are indiscriminately mingled—would like to bring about certain ethnological and geographical changes. Bulgaria is the nation which is conducting a more or less spectacular campaign with streamlined technique.

Ally of Germany in the Great War, and still more than a little friendly disposed, Bulgaria is asking for the restoration of the Dobruja section of Roumania, located between the Bulgarian frontier and the Danube River along the Black Sea. She demands also from Greece and Yugoslavia territory defined as Macedonia, home of a people most nearly Bulgarian, but without definite borders because Macedonia has not had an independent existence for many centuries. She asks also a pathway to the Mediterranean through Thrace in eastern Greece.

If Bulgaria wins her demands, she will regain parts of her population who have been minorities in foreign lands, and she will gain minorities of her own as well: Serb, Greek and Roumanian who will then begin agitation for reunion to their own homelands. The mouth of the Danube, controlled for much of its length by Nazi Germany and the highway for pre-war Germany's "Drang nach Osten," is at present entirely within Roumania, a hesitant ally of Britain and France. But, if Dobruja goes back to Bulgaria, it will be shared between pro-Fascist Bulgaria and Roumania. Bulgaria will acquire a port on the Mediterranean, and, if totalitarian practice were to continue, the Berlin-Rome axis would get a base between Italy and the vital Dardanelles. It would be the easternmost Fascist Mediterranean base with the exception of Near East ports.

As a problem, of course, Bulgarian desires would make a formidable one. But the "ifs" about satisfying those desires will not be as difficult to reconcile now the "Stop Hitler" movement is serving as a definite brake on the totalitarian program.

Gracious Tribute

AMONG THE MEMORIES OF THE Royal Visit which will be long treasured by Mayor Andrew McGavin is the delightful reference which the King and Queen made to him of their sojourn in Victoria. Their Majesties assured his worship that they had enjoyed themselves "very much," and that "everything was wonderful; but our stay in Victoria was far too short; we are sorry we have to go." And when Prime Minister Mackenzie King congratulated Mr. McGavin on the reception given to Their Majesties at the City Hall, and described it as "one of the most dignified ceremonies he had witnessed throughout the Dominion," the Mayor of the capital city of the Province of British Columbia would have been less than human had he not felt a special tinge of pride as Victoria's chief magistrate.

"Spies" in Southwest Africa

SOUTH AFRICAN NEWSPAPERS continue to manifest alarm over the activities of Nazi "agents" in what was formerly German Southwest Africa. We are told that in the Department of Justice offices are numerous files of "frozen" dossiers on Nazi agents against whom nothing can be done. Many of them cloak their practices by affecting to represent German businesses or scientific institutions. Others, pretending to serve the commercial or agricultural interests of the territory, are in reality Nazi agents working only for the benefit of the German Reich.

The harter agreement between South Africa and Germany appears to give these "agents" plenty of scope for their subversive activities. Some of them are native-born and, as such, are British subjects by automatic naturalization. They can, therefore, in the light of the German claim to dual nationality, pretend to be loyal South Africans while working wholeheartedly in the interests of a foreign power.

Tolerance on the part of the Union government has been interpreted as weakness by the Germans, and they have been taking advantage of the official attitude. Reports are prevalent, however, that the government is stiffening in its attitude towards all Nazi propagandists.

BRITAIN'S POLICY THEN AND NOW

From Memorandum by Gladstone to Queen Victoria, April 17, 1867

England must take firmly in her own hands the means to appreciate her obligations, according to the nature of the cases which come up. She must not foreclose and narrow down her own freedom of choice by declarations made to other powers in their real or supposed interest. In connection with European controversies, it is dangerous for her to take an advanced, and therefore isolated, position. Come what may, it is better for her to promise too little than too much. She must not encourage the weak by making them conceive hope of her assistance against the strong, but rather to discourage the strong from any aggression against the weak in a language which is as firm as it is moderate.

Tour Memories

By DIXIE TIGHE
New York Post's Widely-read Columnist in Victoria With Royal Party This Week

MOST SIGNIFICANT RECEPTION

IT WAS IN THE drought-ridden area of the prairie provinces, impoverished and weakened by the loss of the life-blood wheat crops, that the King and Queen found a welcome far more significant than Canada's costly receptions.

For, on the prairies there is little to spend on exterior manifestations. Bunting, illuminated crowns and red carpeting are things that cost money, better spent on making it possible for children to see their King and Queen. What the people on the prairies gave came from strong hearts and unselfishness.

For nearly 10 years the men and women in the drought area have seen one crop after another ruined by sun or rot, but the spirit with which they greeted their King and Queen told no story of discontent.

INTRODUCING THE INFORMAL

THE FIRST REALLY informal note that the King and Queen saw in the way of a civic reception was at Regina. There the mayor bobbed up in a fedora. But the other members of the official family were bound and determined to show Their Majesties that the prairie people are wise in the way of court circles.

At the Regina City Hall, Their Majesties were ushered into a reception room, and the ladies and gentlemen were lined up to be presented to the King and Queen—and there in the smallest city hall, in the smallest room of the tour—the first real curtsies complete with backing off from the monarchs were made, and the corsage was the largest and had the biggest orchids.

But in the neighboring towns there were no orchids and no curtsies. The dirt roads were clogged with wagonloads of children—stuck in the mud. Cars were stuck by the hundreds and paradoxically the disappointment meant rejoicing.

SILK-STOCKINGED INDIANS

THE KING LOVES PEACE except when he has to smoke it in a pipe that hasn't been off an Indian reservation for years. His Majesty certainly shied away from that pipe of peace that was offered him when the Indian chiefs and their squaws put on the show for him at Calgary.

The King's feathered friends wanted to make him Chief Sitting Albino, but as it would have been a demotion for His Majesty, who is already the Great White Father, the Indians had to forget the whole thing.

In lieu of the title they gave him a pair of gloves and a little Indian girl named Audrey Half-child gave Queen Elizabeth a fire-bag which is a duplicate of the hide pouches sold by the Indians at Albuquerque. Little Audrey just laughed and laughed while the Queen patted her head and told her that the bag was perfectly beautiful. Audrey's brother, Ralph Half-child, assisted with the presentation and was also patted on the head by the Queen.

As one accustomed to Madison Square Garden Indians, I must say that these bore-dressed Indians looked like phonies. You would never see one of the wildest shows squaws wearing silk stockings with her ceremonial robes but these, if you please, were wearing sheer hose and tinted sun glasses.

Before the King and Queen arrived I sidled into one of the tepees and it looked like the inside of a big city delicatessen. There were doughnuts wrapped up in cellophane, a plate full of cold meat, a few oranges, an umbrella and a loaf of sandwich bread.

Outside, things looked a little more convincing until you started checking up. Indian chiefs were sitting bolt upright on their horses; ladies were wearing war paint and papooses and all the Indians had names that you couldn't think up.

Samples: Chief Shot On Both Sides, Chief Percy Little Dog, Chief Ows Different Horses, Chief Jacob Two Young Men and Moses Jimmy John.

MODERN INDIAN LOVE CALL

CHIEF BEAR PAW COULDN'T talk much in English but he called over an interpreter Crow Child, who gave out the news. Old Chief Bear Paw (he's 78, he left his twin brothers, 88, home on the range) said he prefers sleeping in a tepee and for dancing he likes the pow-wow. His cousin, Dan Backfat, has turned 58 and is going to day school. He likes the rhumba and a good waltz.

Most of the Indians spoke English which was just as well—the King and Queen could not speak a word of Indian although His Majesty's "ugh" when he saw the dirty old pipe of peace was passable Indian. At least they understood it.

When the King and Queen got into the car after the Indian ceremony the King sat down on a loose white satin pillow. The Queen usually sits on it and I think that they were in such a hurry to get away from the Indian love call that they didn't waste any time rearranging the back-seat upholstery.

The Indian love call, by the way, was just a matter of "hip, hip hooray" yelled vociferously by a few hundred Indians.

In Regina I met an Indian chief named Pot-Pie. In trying to make conversation with Chief Percy Little Dog I asked if he knew Pot-Pie, hoping he might chance on a mutual acquaintance. "Lady," he said, "I'm a stranger here myself."

Should Veterans Be Just a Mob?

To the Editor:—It is difficult for the average observer to arrive at any conclusion as to the method employed in arranging details for His Majesty's farewell to Victoria, at the Ogden Point docks Wednesday morning.

On the one hand, there was staged a perfectly ordered military ceremony in the shape of a guard of honor, with King's color, pipers and band, found from the 16th Canadian Scottish Regiment—excellent.

On the other hand, there was what purported to be a ceremony by ex-service men, but which was at once unceremonious by reason of disorder—therefore, not a ceremony.

Luckily the matter did not end there, for the Veterans, finding their mark in individual action, crowded on to the dock-side and gave Their Majesties a send-off that was most appropriate to the occasion.

This comment on the military performance as being excellent, goes to show that the soldiers know their job. Comment on the so-called ceremony by the Veterans can only be described as pitiable. This confirms the opinion of many old soldiers present, namely, that some of those in charge were incompetent, or, at least, incapable of staging a suitable ceremony appropriate to our King—God bless him.

The time has come for ex-service men to choose one of two courses:

1. To move in formal bodies under a commander.
2. To wander, as a mob, with the chance of being herded about by the police as part of the crowd.

There is no middle course, for it is either formation, or no formation. Provided Veterans elect the former, there should be no difficulty in staging any required ceremony, for then space can be allotted in accordance with the formation that is desired.

All recognize that the police have their duties to perform, but when we hear angry words and a sergeant of Provincial Police moving individual Veterans, who, at all intents and purposes are "on parade" and therefore "under orders," we know that something must be wrong.

Such matters can only be put right in the future by the proper co-operation and co-ordination of authorities and authority.

The co-operation of all authorities is required to determine the kind of ceremony to be staged and where it is to take place.

If the ceremony is to be military, then the final authority, after due co-ordination of all services, must rest in the hands of our military headquarters, who have the knowledge and facilities for making detailed arrangements. There seems to be no reason why all available space on Ogden Point dock, adjacent to the Prince Robert, could not have been utilized to its full advantage, had control been vested in one authority and a plan drawn up to accommodate a military arrangement of the whole "parade."

THANKS TO THEIR MAJESTIES

Contributed

For pleasing reasons that have been accumulating all over this town, we would, in a humble way, like to present our thanks to Their Majesties for coming to visit us. A spriteliness, a cleanliness-up, and a painting-over have retouched the city. For this we feel Their Majesties are to be thanked. If they were not coming, would there be this putting things to rights? We fear not.

But seeing all this glistering anew, we are glad, and humbly thank Their Majesties. These intimations of welcome will remain a blessing to those who stay behind, and will be happy, if small reminders of when Their Majesties saw our town neat and bright, as we like to see it.

EXPERIMENTAL FARMS From Canada's Weekly

The system of Dominion Experimental Farms in Canada was established 53 years ago with five farms. Today it is regarded as the most comprehensive system of its kind in the world. In addition to the contributions to the agricultural industry made by these farms and stations, the physical property now represents one of the most valuable assets of the Canadian government. A report of the recent conference held at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, is well worth studying. The primary object of the conference was to discuss ways and means of improving the services of the system in the interests of the farming community and the public generally.

ANTI-VIVISECTION

The following resolution was passed at the monthly board meeting of the Canadian Anti-Vivisection Society:

"That this society is in sympathy with the proposal to form Magna Charta societies in Canada, for upholding the liberties of the people, hoping this may afford protection against the infringement of their liberties or any compulsion in matters of health, by advocacy of various tests, which include the Wasserman, tuberculin and diphtheric tests, all of which are unreliable according to a considerable body of scientific opinion, and moreover, it has come to the attention of this society that many persons are hesitant of entering British Columbia on account of the reports of the regulations dominating health in this country."

Copies of a book, "The Mind Changers," are being distributed to certain libraries.

Clarence Richard, of the National Anti-Vivisection Society, Chicago, Ill., sent a proposal for co-operation methods to be employed in co-ordination of the various anti-vivisection societies in this country.

Relative to cancer research, the Montreal Star of 13th April stated that the Federal Government had not spent any money on cancer research in 1938, or disbursed any funds. The Victoria society is emphatic in its statement that animal experimentation has hindered any progress in elucidating the cause of, or a cure for cancer.

Queen Remembers Both Hospitals

Her Majesty Thanks
Jubilee and St. Joseph's
For Greetings On Tuesday

Queen Elizabeth, just before she left Government House yesterday, ordered masses of magnificent flowers for patients and staffs of the Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

The day before, Their Majesties drove by both hospitals on their long processional route through Greater Victoria. Outside both institutions were arranged special welcomes.

At the Jubilee patients in wheelchairs gathered with many student nurses, all waving flags. Ex-soldier patients cheered heartily as the King and Queen drove by. His Majesty saluted.

At St. Joseph's, sisters and nurses were massed on Humboldt Street and in the background was a group of Royal pictures, among them the Earl and Countess of Strathmore, the parents of the Queen. Her Majesty noticed the pictures and waved to the little flower-girls, among whom was Judith Norton.

ARMFUL OF GLADIOLI

Two gifts of flowers went to the Jubilee from Her Majesty. One was a magnificent basket of pink snapdragons, mauve stocks, variegated gladioli, sweet peas and rosebuds. The other was a great armful of pure white gladioli and large pink carnations.

All patients were advised of the Royal floral gifts and as many as possible saw them during the day.

To the sisters, patients and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, Queen Elizabeth sent a basket of beautiful pink roses, blue delphiniums and maidenhair fern, with a soft touch of mauve orchids.

This lovely souvenir of Their Majesties' visit was placed in the hospital chapel, before the altar of Our Lady, Queen of Heaven, on the last day of her own month of May, which was dedicated by Pope Pius to the peace of the world.

"This beautiful remembrance of our gracious Queen Elizabeth has crowned our petitions as a peace offering" one of the sisters said.

This morning the flowers were taken from the chapel and given a place in the main corridor, where patients, staff and visitors inspected them.

PRESENT TALENTED MUSIC HALL SHOW

"A Night in a London Music Hall" was the title of an interesting entertainment presented in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium last evening by the newly-formed Royal Victoria Pierrot Troupe, under the able direction of Stan James.

Fourteen artists contributed to the show. They were dressed in pierrot and harlequin costume presenting colorful and talented performances.

Ray Hunt and Armand Castillo added comedy to the program with a "Ferdinand the Bull," skit while Nellie Playne, English comedienne, burlesqued the once-famous Vesta Tilley in "There Was I Awaiting at the Church," and "He Used to Call Me Little Mary Anne."

Five-year-old Bruce Allen sang and tap-danced. Enid Middleton, a second child performer, sang "That Wonderful Mother of Mine" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and 11-year-old Iris Brooks tap danced and sang.

Elsa Ridgeway gave light opera selections. Betty Clare danced and presented four of her pupils in several dances and the program was rounded off with a roller-skating act by the Hornby Company.

Jerry Schofield accompanied the artists at the piano.

Thanks Volunteers Who Aided Police

Chief of Police J. A. McLellan today voiced his thanks to volunteers who assisted in traffic control during the Royal Visit.

"Without the assistance of the men who offered their time for the duration of the visit, we could never have controlled the crowds as we did," the chief said. "Although the work was new to most of the men, we experienced no difficulty with them, and I feel they deserve much credit for the success of the holiday from a police viewpoint."

The manner in which all police arrangements were carried out without a hitch was commented upon by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, Hon. Ian MacKenzie and several other officials.

A British naturalist says that when two-year-old horses are made to race, the neural spines of the withers become malformed, because the animal is not yet mature enough to carry a jockey's weight.

Chinese Interview Dorothy Lamour

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Two Chinese newspapermen in Singapore interviewed Dorothy Lamour, "singing girl" of the screen, by telephone today in one of the longest-distance calls on record, 12,000 miles.

The conversation with Lim Keng Hor, Singapore newspaper editor, and C. S. See, author of "A Chinese Sees the World," inaugurated radiotelephonic service between the Malay states, the United States, Canada and Mexico. Miss Lamour played a Malayan role in one of her most successful pictures.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber left yesterday afternoon for Vancouver where they will be guests at the marriage today of Miss Kathleen Taylor to Mr. John Flanagan of Pasadena, Cal. After filling a number of other engagements they will return to Government House at the weekend.

Miss Elaine Willard, who has been spending some time in Seattle, has returned to her home at Patricia Bay.

Mrs. Vincent Rush of Port Alberni has been spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. F. Stelek of Royal Oak.

Mr. C. H. P. Tupper, M.P.P., and Mrs. Tupper left this afternoon for their home in Penitence after attending the government functions arranged in honor of Their Majesties.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Clark, Nagle Street, Duncan, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Mae, to Mr. James P. Veitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Veitch, Victoria. The wedding will take place at Duncan on June 17.

Mr. Richard B. George left yesterday afternoon by plane for Winnipeg to resume his duties with the Bank of Nova Scotia, after holidaying for the last three weeks at the home of his mother, Mrs. F. W. B. George, Dallas Road.

Mrs. O. M. Brown is confined to her home on Lansdowne Road with an attack of tonsillitis.

Mr. Alec Aitken of Cumberland has returned home after spending the days of the Royal Visit in Victoria with friends.

Mr. Walter Broad of Stewart is spending a few days in Victoria en route home from a trip as far south as San Francisco.

Mrs. O. Cole of Berkeley, Calif., who has been visiting in Victoria with Mrs. Ernest Temple, Beach Drive, for a few weeks, will leave tomorrow for her home.

Miss Dorothy Crisp of Seattle, who is visiting in Victoria with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mann, Currie Road, Oak Bay, will leave for home tomorrow.

The celebration of the 32nd anniversary of the coming of the Sisters of St. Ann to Victoria, a tea will be held on Sunday at the home of Mrs. B. Yool, 1623 Belmont Avenue. The president, Miss Rose McKenna, and the past president, Miss Flora Burns, will welcome the guests as they arrive and among the special guests of the occasion will be Mother Theodore, first Federation Sister. The affair is being sponsored by the local branch of the Federation of Catholic Alumnae, an alumnae of various convents and friends of the convent here will be welcomed.

King George and Queen Elizabeth have sent a personal message of regret that Mrs. John Hart was prevented by illness from being presented to them at the side of her husband, the Minister of Finance, in the legislative chamber on Tuesday. The letter, addressed to the minister and signed by the King's private secretary, A. F. Lascelles, read: "The King and Queen were very sorry indeed to know that Mrs. Hart was prevented through illness from being present today. Would you kindly give her Their Majesties' best wishes and their sincere sympathy in her illness." In a postscript Mr. Lascelles added his own regrets at not having had the opportunity to talk with the minister.

P.E.O. Convention Meets On Mainland

Mrs. H. O. English
Of Victoria to Preside at Sessions

VANCOUVER—The first convention of women to be held in the new Hotel Vancouver will be that of Provincial Chapter P.E.O. Sisterhood.

Opening at 6.30 p.m. today with registration of delegates, the session will continue this evening and all day Friday, closing with a banquet on Friday evening.

Presiding at all sessions will be the provincial president, Mrs. H. O. English of Victoria, while Mrs. C. Stevens Wright of Denver, Colo., president of Supreme Chapter, will be an honored guest.

General chairman for the convention is Mrs. William M. Shearer, and delegates and visitors are expected from representative points in the province, as well as from neighboring United States.

An international sisterhood comprising a membership of 62,000, P.E.O. has a revolving educational loan fund, totalling some $800,000, through which hundreds of young women have been assisted to higher education. An invitation has been extended to Supreme Chapter to hold the 1941 convention in Victoria.

Victoria delegates to the convention include Mrs. English, Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, Mrs. H. C. MacCallum, Mrs. W. C. Fyfe, Mrs. E. H. Street, Mrs. H. S. Hurn, Mrs. F. M. MacGregor, Mrs. G. Murphy, Mrs. C. L. Campbell, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. T. H. Johns, Mrs. E. R. Whittington, Mrs. C. N. Westwood, Mrs. V. L. Denton, Mrs. H. L. Campbell, Mrs. W. E. Staneland, Mrs. T. P. Bain, Mrs. A. B. Christopher, Mrs. W. A. Tuck, Mrs. G. W. Fletcher of Winnipeg and Mrs. R. W. Mayhew.

Dr. and Mrs. M. R. Caverhill, formerly Miss Verna May Tucker of Vancouver, have returned from their honeymoon up-island and have taken up residence at 431 Linden Avenue.

Mrs. F. J. A. Pool entertained yesterday afternoon at her home, 988 Heywood Avenue, in compliment to Mrs. Jack Rogerson of Moose Jaw, who with her husband and two sons, is visiting with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Rogerson, Rockland Avenue. Mrs. Pool was assisted by Mrs. S. Rogerson and Mrs. Roy Murray.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pegrum, Second Street, have returned home from a trip that took them to Buffalo, N.Y., where they visited their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Pegrum. From Buffalo they went to New York, from where they sailed for Los Angeles via the Panama Canal to visit another son, Dr. D. S. Pegrum.

Senator and Mrs. A. D. McRae entertained over 200 guests at "Hycroft," Shaughnessy Heights, on Tuesday evening in honor of a much-feted bride couple, Miss Katherine Taylor and Mr. John Flanagan. Eighty-six had been invited for dinner, other guests coming in later for dancing. Mrs. R. P. Baker, in orchid organza, and Mrs. Lucille McRae Paul, in lapis blue slipper satin, assisted their parents in receiving. The bride-elect wore a French frock of aquamarine blue silk crepe and her mother, Mrs. Austin Taylor, wore a pink French marquisette over taffeta and bands of fine black lace inserted in the full skirt. All in white was Mrs. Francis Hartley of Victoria, house guest at Hycroft, who went over to attend the wedding. Flowers and lights turned the stately mansion into a fairyland for the party.

Girl to Resume Ride Across Dominion
HOPE, B.C. (CP)—Mary Bosanquet, 25-year-old English girl who is attempting to ride from New Westminster, B.C., to Montreal on a horse, will make a second attempt to cross the Hope-Princeton summit on her way east today.

Halted several days by heavy snows, Miss Bosanquet believes she can reach Princeton in three days. She will be accompanied by Mrs. S. F. MacKay and W. H. Richmond.

May Day Queen Sees Real Queen
NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Two queens were within a few feet of each other in Queen's Park stadium here yesterday.

One was Queen Elizabeth, who drove around the stadium, where 10,000 children shouted and waved flags at her as she passed with King George.

The other was Edith Augustina, the nine-year-old the children elected themselves earlier this year as queen of their annual May Day ceremony.

Edith curtsied low as Queen Elizabeth passed. Her Majesty bowed slightly and smiled—and the boys and girls all around jumped up and down with delight.

Liquor Recipe's Draw W.C.T.U. Criticism
TORONTO (CP)—In the course of the 53rd annual meeting of Toronto District Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. J. H. Walker, deploring certain advertising, said:

"A short time ago, a woman demonstrating fruit juices in a store remarked: 'Now, if you were to add a little gin, it would make a splendid cocktail.'" she recalled, adding that the matter was reported to the store management, and nothing more was heard about the gin.

"We see 'rum-and-butter pudding' on the menu, 'rum' flavor in ice cream, 'rum' sauce served with puddings," she said. "And last, but not least, comes the 'cocktail apron,' which liquor interests have prepared, with recipes calling for highly-alcoholized wines and liquors, gin—the most intoxicating of all alcoholic beverages—forming the basis of 28 of these cocktail recipes."

Victoria Women's Institute will hold a League of Nations tea tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 at 635 Fort Street. A musical program has been arranged.

GIVE SLEEPY STOMACHS THIS 3-WAY HELP

In these modern days, we live at a fast tempo. We don't have time to "work up an appetite" before we sit down to breakfast. In the rush from bed to breakfast to work, we need a "waking-up" meal specially designed to get us quickly into our stride. Every morning, we should have a breakfast which does these three things:

- 1 Gently WAKES sleepy stomachs: The mouth-watering deliciousness of Kellogg's Corn Flakes immediately stimulates the flow of gastric juices, rouses the appetite. Their special appetite-teasing, malty flavour is a closely-guarded Kellogg secret.
- 2 STARTS you quick: Golden, crisp Kellogg's Corn Flakes are rich in energizing "carbohydrates." When you tackle a bowlful of these appetizing flakes with sugar and cream, your system is supplied with instant "fuel."
- 3 Helps KEEP you going: The time to avoid that mid-morning slump is at breakfast. A brimming bowlful of Kellogg's Corn Flakes, with cream and sugar, releases energy hours after eaten—helps keep you going until lunch.

Hundreds of thousands of Canadian families save time and trouble by serving Kellogg's Corn Flakes—the "30-second breakfast." Order a package today. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

Weddings

REID-JONES

At the home of the officiating minister, Rev. T. H. McAllister, the marriage of Eileen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones, Happy Valley, and Mr. James Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Reid, Happy Valley, was quietly solemnized on Saturday at 3 p.m.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a powder blue lace-trimmed frock with white accessories and a corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds and white carnations. Miss Margaret Reid, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid in a royal blue dress trimmed with gold accessories to tone and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. W. A. Jones, brother of the bride, supported the groom. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. S. G. Randall and Mrs. J. Crossfield receiving the guests. Sweet peas, columbines and bridal wreath were effectively used in decorating the reception room. After a honeymoon spent at up-island points, Mr. and Mrs. Reid will make their home in Happy Valley.

High School Boys Build Incubator

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Pittsburgh public health supervisor has designed an incubator for prematurely-born babies so simple that high school boys can build it and so compact and light that nurses can carry it into the home.

Mrs. Katherine Holcomb created a wooden incubator heated by light bulbs. Her son Jack, a high school boy, helped. The design was completed and Jack's classmates in the high school wood shop put on the finishing touches. At least 15 babies, weighing less than five pounds at birth, have already breathed their way to life in the boxes.

Despises Women Who Allow Brains To Atrophy

Pearl Buck Says They Belong to 'Gunpowder Group'

NEW YORK—Women of "the gunpowder group," whose lack of duties made them susceptible to mischievous ideas and pastimes, were attacked by Mrs. Pearl Buck, the novelist, at a dinner held in her honor by the American Women's Association in New York.

Mrs. Buck, famous for her studies of Chinese life, notably "The Good Earth," won the Nobel Prize for literature last year.

In her speech she divided women into three groups. The first consisted of talented women with an inner urge to express themselves beyond their jobs as homemakers and mothers; the second included women whose domestic tasks leave them no spare time; the third were those without enough to do—with education but with no intention of using it.

LOST BRAIN POWER

These she described as "the gunpowder group"—the source of lost brain power comparable to the flood waters that rise and encircle the earth.

"Women like me—not that I matter except as representative of a type—are the safest members of society," she said.

"I know myself well enough now to know that I am one of those women who have an inner necessity to go to work. But beyond that restiveness, if I am not utilizing the available hours of each day, lies the compelling fact that I have to make money; it happens that we have adopted rather a lot of children, and all those things take money, which I can help earn.

"The women for whom I am concerned are far less fortunate. They do not have to earn money because their husbands earn it for them, and they experience no inner necessity to give them a self-starter on some application of their education or talent. A portion of their brains remains perfectly unused.

"Secretly they would like to feel that they are contributing something to the world. They ought to be despised. They ought to be compelled to make some such return.

"They are the most unfortunate creatures—who have never known that necessity to work which I believe is the major element in the success that men have had and the progress they have made."

WOMAN RULES IN CHINA

In China, Mrs. Buck declared, the woman rules as the head of her house even though she never goes outside the door.

Although she had no legal rights until 1927, and then only fragmentary ones, the moment the revolutionary movement among women reached the stage at which they demanded legal recognition, it was granted as a matter of logic and right, she said.

Through the very curtailment of opportunities, she asserted, the Chinese woman has fended for herself, even in homes of wealth, knowing that she would some day have to make herself useful and agreeable in her husband's home.

There, at least, a large section of the American women have failed to justify the wealth of opportunities and education, and of openings for service to the race, that have been theirs in contrast with their Chinese sisters.

Barrymore Regains Strength

CHICAGO (AP)—John Barrymore's physician described the veteran actor's condition as "much improved" today. The 57-year-old star was ordered to rest yesterday after an attack of a heart ailment.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Peoples Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It!

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can feel about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and peevish. Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car, and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were finding 'em air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.

Ex-film Star Now Heads Business In New York

Gloria Swanson at 41 Starts Firm Of 'Multiprisers'

By GEORGE ROSS

NEW YORK—Gloria Swanson, the cinematic siren who once hurled fast curves across the silent screen, has said goodbye to all that.

The erstwhile glamour girl of gilded legend now is one of the comeliest business executives in New York.

Ensnared behind a handsome desk in handsome offices in Rockefeller Centre, the former vamp's title now is—President of Multiprisers, Inc.

A New York reporter stumbled across the tantalizing fact quite by accident. For Gloria has guarded her secret jealously, minding her own business and telling of it sotto voce.

The hiring of the pleasant voice who manages the office approaches the phone with trepidation when a caller inquires about Gloria's enterprise.

"Miss Swanson," she pleads, "doesn't want any publicity."

Today's Gloria Swanson.

When you discreetly edge in a query about Multiprisers, Inc., you learn that Miss Swanson is developing new patented inventions. At that point, the lady seals her lips and declines to name the type of inventions that Gloria is fostering in her fashionable Radio City headquarters.

IS NOW 41

She keeps real office hours, and she goes to and from her headquarters without undue crowding. Sometimes she rides down in the Fifth Avenue bus, marveling that she can get away without a trailing retinue. The business is not under full steam yet, and until it is, she is exerting all her energy and most of her time to pulling it together.

She lives in a fairly luxurious apartment in the Sixties, where she pays personal attention to the domestic odds and ends of general housekeeping.

At a ringside table of the lush and lofty Rainbow Room, the other night, the glitter girl of an era that has just rushed by, looked far younger than her years. And concerning her years, she admits to 41 of them, without resort to sophistry. She was 41 on March 27, and to look at her bears out Walter Pitkin's credo about life beginning at 40. She sets the style with stunning costumes, no grey can be detected about her stark-black coiffure and her smile is as engaging as it seemed to past generations of film-goers.

MIGHT STILL GO HOLLYWOOD

She has not put Hollywood behind her forever. Her closest friends quote her as saying that if the cinematic moguls presented her with a suitable story, an ideal role and a satisfactory supporting cast, she would return there, leaving Multiprisers, Inc. to take care of itself for a while.

Big business, incidentally, is not a new experience for her. Back in 1926, she rejected queenly offers from movie moguls and formed her own producing company. It started badly when she spent almost a million on a film that never saw the light. Then she converted a failure into success by putting out "Rain." Its profits ran to almost a million, besides re-establishing her in the public esteem as Hollywood's leading glamour girl.

Wins Royal Smile With Picture Of Princess

Mrs. A. Pinnington Draws Their Majesties' Attention With Portrait

Mrs. Alice Pinnington, 1215 Chapman Street, can say that the Queen smiled on her alone. That famous quirk of Her Majesty's mouth and the gracious twirling of her right hand were directed on Mrs. Pinnington, an audience of one, as she stood on Dallas Road near Cook Street waiting for Their Majesties on their drive to Ogden Point.

Mrs. Pinnington was standing on the curb holding aloft a large framed picture of Princess Elizabeth. It was sent her by Sir Edward Penton, K.B.E., secretary superintendent of the Princess Elizabeth of York Hospital for Children, Shadwell, London, of the local branch of which she is a prominent member.

As the Royal car came into sight, Mrs. Pinnington raised the portrait far above her head. There was nobody around for 50 yards.

The Queen noticed the picture in pleasant astonishment. She quickly spoke to the King, who turned, smiled, and saluted.

"Her Majesty's eyes rested for a moment on her little daughter's picture and she seemed pleased," Mrs. Pinnington said. "It's the greatest moment in my life."

The picture, which arrived a few weeks ago, is a beautiful likeness of the Queen's elder daughter. With it was sent a note expressing the hope that it would arrive in Victoria in time for Their Majesties' visit.

Silver badges bearing a portrait of Princess Elizabeth were also presented from London to the enrolled members of the local Children's League in honor of the Royal Visit. Those members receiving their badges were: Mrs. A. McDonald, Mabel Pinnington, Betty Godson, Hazel Brensden, Mrs. Alice Pinnington, R. J. Calton and Frederick Billcocks.

Clergymen Flay Tardy Brides

London Ministers Write Complaints To The Press

By MOLLY MCGEE

Canadian Press Correspondent
LONDON (CP)—The wedding season being in full tilt, the subject of the bride-who-is-late-at-the-altar has cropped up again.

It seems that twice a year clergymen in well-known parishes in London herald October and June brides with salvos of condemnation in their parish magazines for not resisting the impulse to "keep him dangling a few minutes more." The clergymen's words are quoted in the press and in due course the semi-annual controversy as to how late a bride must be to be correct is on again—with due publicity to the churches concerned.

This time the whole matter has taken the form of an East End against West End discussion, with the East End clergymen proving their brides (parish brides) arrive on time and the West End prelate bemoaning the tardiness of their society weddings. Just to make the discussion a bit more up-to-date the registry office clerks chime in with the information "registry office brides are never late." What this proves was not mentioned.

"COUNTY" LEADS

The match started off with County leading. Canon W. H. Gay complained in his parish magazine that the clergy at Christ church Priory, Hampshire, are sometimes kept waiting 20 minutes for the bride to arrive. For any young woman to keep the choir, guests and clergy waiting all this time is, in the opinion of Canon Gay, distinctly "bad form."

Other vicars have voiced similar complaints. Rev. W. A. Gibson of St. Mark's Church, Mitcham, Surrey, lamented over one bride who arrived 45 minutes late "without a word of apology."

Canon Gay credits his parish with the deliberate intention of being late, owing to what he describes as "hypocrisy" and "childishness" and "the excuse that it is correct for the bride to be late at her wedding and not show too much eagerness to be married."

TO BRIDES' DEFENCE

On the other hand the brides have two champions. Rev. Bryan Green, vicar of Holy Trinity, Brompton Road—and very West End—said he could not remember ever having to wait more than two minutes for a bride.

"It is true," he said, "that brides don't like to arrive at the church early, but that is quite understandable. They don't want to be kept waiting about while the guests are arriving. Most brides, therefore, try to arrange things so they will arrive at the church exactly on time."

The other brides' champion is the rector of Whitechapel, East End's centre. "Nearly all the brides I marry have been through our day schools, and we teach them to be punctual there," he explained. "If ever one is a little late she always has a good excuse, and it is usually because there has been such a run on the single car hired for the wedding. They can usually afford only one car in this part of the world, and this has to go backwards and forwards collecting the bridesmaids and principal guests, and though it collects them in good time, it is sometimes a little late in calling for the bride."

British Institutes to Hold Convention

VICTORIA — The annual general meeting of the National Federation of Women's Institutes will be held on June 7 at Earl's Court. There will probably be more than 8,000 women in the assembly, with plenty of variety in the problems they will discuss. The subjects vary from children's bedtimes to rear lights for cyclists.

Delegates from Northampton will urge that there should be legislation to make it a punishable offence for parents to leave young children alone in a house while they go to the movies or elsewhere. The Essex delegation will put forward an amendment expressing the view that education, rather than legislation, is the better course.

All Women's Institutes will be advised to study the importance of adequate sleep for young children and a brisk interchange of views is expected on the question of whether it is more desirable to build new schools in rural areas rather than in industrial towns.

Warwickshire Federation executive committee will suggest the government be urged to compel cyclists to carry rear lights as well as reflectors.

Refugees Couldn't Enlist
CANNBERRA — Escaped from tyranny and persecution, 96 refugees Jews have endeavored to enlist in the Australian militia, but foreign nationality is an obstacle at present.

Bridal Gowns Minus Traditional Flimsy

NEW YORK (CP)—White is still the favorite bridal gown color, though blush pink is chosen by a number of brides.

Designers have given special thought this year to brides who want to be married without the traditional white gown and veil. Among the smartest gowns designed for them are crepes (mauve, hyacinth blue, dusty rose and beige) designed with short or five-eighth length sleeves, and supple floor-length skirts.

Very simple weddings where a street-length frock is required are provided for with crepe frock and redingote ensembles or combinations of a chiffon frock and fitted silk coat in soft blue, navy blue, or grey.

Experts settle the skirt-length question with this decree: Floor-length skirts for an afternoon or evening wedding at home in the presence of guests; street-length skirts for a simple ceremony at the minister's home or at the church in the presence of only one or two witnesses—or even for a house wedding when the bride's pair is leaving immediately after the ceremony.

Wins Poetry Award

BOSTON—Leonora Speyer has been awarded the Golden Rose for poetry by the New England Poetry Society. Previous winners of the award are Robert Frost, Archibald MacLeish, Joseph Auslander and Robert Hillyer.

House Went Cheap

LONDON—Acting for Catherine Lady Headley, an agent bid $47.00 for a house in Hyde Park Place. It was the only bid and the house went to the widow of Lord Headley, the Moslem peer.

Cowichan Bay Pleases All Visitors

Few spots along the Vancouver Island coast are more attractive than far-famed Cowichan Bay, situated just a few miles south of Duncan and less than two-hours drive from Victoria north along the Island Highway. This almost land-locked body of water is advantageously situated in a gentle curve of the shoreline. Across the water, green hills rise against the sky, giving the whole scene much the appearance of a mountain lake. At the head of the bay, two rivers, Koksilah and Cowichan, empty their waters into the sea. Beyond the river flats Mount Tzouhalem, dear to the hearts of every Cowichan Indian, stands guard above the whole lovely district. Over all this scenic beauty is an air of enchantment that calls to the visitor in search of a real holiday.

Cowichan Bay has some of the finest fishing to be found on the coast. The excellence of the trolling in these protected waters has brought fame to the whole district. Of recent years there has been added the sport of catching salmon on a fly. To an ardent fisherman the thrill of a large fish on the end of a light trace free from the heavy weight that hampers play on a trolling line, cannot be equalled.

COWICHAN BAY INN

Cowichan Bay Inn, overlooking the quiet waters of the bay is a mecca for all holiday seekers. Built on the historic site of the old John Bull Inn, a hotel that served the surrounding district back in the early days of the Island's life, this up-to-date hotel is becoming more popular as the seasons come and go. The Inn boasts a splendid location with a beach right from the foot of its steps. No more glorious sight can be found than the view of the sunset from the big veranda. This season the inn has a new manager, Mr. J. B. Acland, formerly connected with the Cadboro Bay Yacht Club in Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. Acland are very well known on the island and they hope to welcome many old friends at Cowichan Bay. The inn is modern in every way. Rooms are comfortable and meals well cooked and daintily served. There is warm sea bathing, tennis and for those who enjoy delving into the past of a people much of historical interest in the surrounding countryside.

Sunset at Cowichan Bay.

Vancouver Island. Within a short distance of the summer colony are to be found relics of the early days of their might. Still living on the reservation are old men and women who can tell stories of days before the white man came. Near the foot of Tzouhalem Mountain at the head of the bay is the grave of Chief Sull-A-Math, a great Indian warrior around whose name many strange tales are woven. There is an old deserted stone church, too, that stands today without doors or windows. So it has stood for many a long day and numerous are the tales as to why it should remain so.

WIDEUMA GUEST HOUSE

Driving out from Victoria the highway leaves the sea just beyond the foot of the Malahat and strikes off inland until it reaches the long curving hill that winds down to the wide sweep of Cowichan Bay. Just at the top of the hill there is a tempting side road that leads through cool green trees to Wilcuma Guest House, the summer resort with the beautiful view. This lovely big rambling lodge is situated on a point jutting out into the bay. It has a view of the whole panorama of hills and shoreline, yet it preserves an air of privacy that is very welcome to vacation seekers. It has a beautiful garden of green lawns and great trees that stretches right to the beach. There are wide glassed-in verandas that look out to the sea. Afternoon tea is served here and on the lawns during the summer. The rooms of the lodge are beautiful in their comfortable appointments. There are boats and launches, bathing houses on the beach and bright hued umbrellas dotted about in the garden. Wil-cuma is a delight to each and everyone who visits it.

ENGLISH GUEST HOUSE

For those who like to relax in the quiet seclusion of a lovely English countryside home there is The Warren, just a stone's throw off the new main highway, ten minutes away from Cowichan Bay. Here are lovely gardens, cool comfortable rooms, and real English home-cooked meals with fresh farm produce. Nothing could be better than The Warren for a restful holiday within close reach of everything that makes a vacation worthwhile.

Cowichan Bay calls to everyone who loves the great outdoors and to those who search out its wonders it gives a welcome that will long be remembered in the vacationists' memory of pleasant outdoor hours.

New Auto Camp Near Courtenay

Cottonwood Court is a new auto camp on a bend of the river just outside the city of Courtenay, in the peaceful Comox district. It is in a lovely setting—a stretch of quiet parkland dotted with great old trees. The cabins are built of logs, completing the rustic effect. Inside, however, everything is modern and up-to-the-minute, with pretty furnishings and appointments. There are small and large cabins, also a duplex with two lovely de luxe suites.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Reynolds are the owners and they have spared no effort to make their camp outstanding in every way. There are boats and fishing tackle at the camp. There is fishing in the river or in the sea not far away. There is swimming, golf, tennis, riding and mountain climbing within easy reach of the camp. Mr. Reynolds also has a cabin cruiser which he will charter to vacation parties. There is special trailer accommodation. With it all, there is also plenty of room to move about in Cottonwood Court Park.

BID FAREWELL TO ASSISTANT PASTOR

First United Congregation Says Good-bye to Rev. John E. Bell

The congregation of First United Church last night bade farewell to Rev. John E. Bell, assistant pastor for the last two years, who left today for post graduate studies in New York. As a token of esteem for the young minister a purse was presented to him from the parish. The farewell on behalf of the congregation was voiced by Rev. Hugh McLeod, pastor. Prof. E. S. Farr spoke on behalf of the Sunday school. Mr. Bell replied suitably, saying his work here had been an inspiration to him and he would always remember the kindness of First United. Miss Mary Loudon, president of the young people's society, and James Forman made the presentation. Miss Marie McDougall, formerly of the United Church Deaconess School, Toronto, who will take over Mr. Bell's work, was introduced by Mrs. A. S. Christie.

Entertainment was contributed by Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Robert Morrison, Neil Perry and Miss Ruth Curtis. Rev. A. E. Whitehouse, pastor of Metropolitan United, opened the evening with prayer.

King Accepted Locally Written Book and Poem

Verses dedicated to the silver jubilee of the late King George V and Queen Mary and written by Horatio Wallace of 3070 Albany Road and Dean Spencer Elliott's book, "When Troubles Come," were accepted by King George VI during his short stay in Victoria.

The Dean this morning received two letters from Capt. Michael Adeane, assistant private secretary to the King.

Thanking the Dean for the gift of his book, the message from the King said, "Their Majesties also wish me to say how sincerely they appreciate the message which you have been good enough to inscribe at the front of the book."

The other letter to the Dean says, "The Lieut.-Governor has given me your letter of May 10, together with the enclosed poem by Horatio Wallace. His Majesty is most grateful to you for sending these verses, and would like you to let Mr. Wallace know that he has been pleased to accept them."

Wants Washing Machine In Every Rural Home

LONDON (CP)—Mrs. Alfred Watt, Canadian president of the Associated Country Women of the World, told the 5,000 delegates of her "dream" to put washing machines in every country home. "We all dream of what we will do when that $1,000,000 falls miraculously into our hands, and my dream is to put a washing machine in every village home," she said.

The two Italian delegates gave the Fascist salute at the conference when the roll was called yesterday, but German delegates merely stood up, as did those from Canada and 55 other countries.

No Change In Fight Betting

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

RECENTLY, Ford Frick, president, warned Fred Frankhouse of the Boston Bees and other National League pitchers against the spitball and tampering with the sphere. The Pittsburgh Pirates charged Frankhouse and Claude Passeau of the Phillies with doctoring the pellet. Philadelphia players suspect that pitchers of New York Giants threw at Morrie Aronovich's head when they thought the young outfielder was taking too many liberties at the plate. The bean ball is inexcusable.

We remember at this time what Bill McGowan, most competent of American League umpires, said last season. It was that 55 per cent of major league pitchers deliver the ball illegally one way or another. Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' young strikeout king, is one of many who, consciously or not, goes to his mouth before delivering the ball. Up until this spring the Iowa farm boy also jumped the rubber. But so much has been taken away from the pitchers that they can't be criticized too severely for taking a little edge now and then.

Naturally, the smarter ones do their tricks only when in a hole. There would be no percentage in their doing them at any other time, and such a system does not stress infractions.

Mechanical pitching faults are plentiful and old and outworn tricks are still in use and come in mighty handy... especially when the hurler is attempting to head off the New York Yankees home run parade.

Johnny Allen spits in his glove and rubs the ball therein, and umpires and opposing players assert that there is too free use of resin in connection with his clothing.

George Caster of the Philadelphia Athletics is another who goes to his mouth.

Perspiration serves as saliva in a species of the banned spitter.

Pitchers have cut the seam of the ball with sharp thumbnails and on belt buckles.

They have discolored the ball with mud, licorice, coffee and whatnot.

They have roughened it with sandpaper, emery and finger-nails.

Two swipes on his trouser leg and Eddie Cicotte of unhappy Black Sox memory had one side of the agate shined like a ball-room slipper.

Pitchers have shined one side of the ball and blackened the other, creating a dazzling black and white effect.

Loading the seam with mud made the ball dart in unexpected directions.

Howard Ehmke stuck chewing gum on the pellet in the first game of the 1929 world series.

Fellows with unusually strong grips are able to loosen the cover and thus toss a "punch" ball, but this procedure is saved for one desperate pitch.

Joe Vance, now with Kansas City, wore a shiny ring on his pitching hand while with the Chicago White Sox for a brief period five years back.

Among the more pronounced mechanical faults, in addition to taking a step, or crowhopping with the front foot, is not coming to a stop before pitching with men on bases. Against the rules, pitchers move the shoulders, head, arms, feet, or fingers after coming to a stop. They do not step toward first base in attempting to pick off a base runner.

McGowan and all other umpires will tell you that they'd spend half their time running to the box if they did so in response to every mechanical defect and rule infringement.

The umpires' job is, as Bill McGowan explains it, to prevent hard-boiled old offenders from getting away with anything and in general to keep illegal pitching down to a minimum.

But they shouldn't be too particular with fellows toiling against those Yankee busters.

Nova and Baer Remain Even Favorites for Heavyweight Bout Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—An even-money fight takes place at Yankee Stadium tonight when Max Baer, the former champion, attempts a 15-round comeback against Lou Nova, promising young Pacific Coast heavyweight.

Baer's followers, with few exceptions, are banking on him to knock his 24-year-old rival kicking in the early rounds. Nova's admirers expect the former amateur champion to jolt out a clean decision, perhaps even to stop the 30-year-old Maxie in the late rounds.

Nearly eight weeks ago, when Baer buckled down to the most serious training grind of his career, the bookmakers were offering a tentative 2-to-1 he would whip Nova. That has been whittled down gradually to where, last night, Nova actually was favored at 10-to-11 in several large wagers.

Nova has trained methodically and perfectly at Nyack, obviously gaining confidence with every workout.

NO IMPROVEMENT

Baer, on the other hand, has not been so impressive. Suddenly turning serious after all the gay years doesn't appear to have agreed with him. As for his boxing, it obviously has not improved. He reached the top with a terrific right-hand punch, and that's what he still has.

In the opinion of most, Nova will need only to step inside and evade that one ponderous blow for 15 rounds to walk off with the decision and sew up a championship match either with Joe Louis or Tony Galento in September.

Nova has had only 26 bouts since he turned professional. He isn't particularly colorful in or out of the ring, and the old-timers say he doesn't have "class." But on Lou's side are other qualities. He is big—six feet, 203 pounds—and strong. He fights carefully and according to the book, straight up, he hits short and sharp.

It might develop into a slashing brawl for the benefit of the 22,000 fans expected to attend.

Victory Nine Defeats Giants

Captures Final Baseball Battle With Touring Players 13 to 11

"Who said I didn't have a ball team," growled Manager Fred McGinnis of the Victoria All-stars in a challenging tone last night after his boys had hammered out a 13 to 11 triumph over their two-triumphant opponents, the touring Zulu Giants, at the Athletic Park. This was the third and final game of a three-game series here between the All-stars and the tourists.

The locals played nice ball and with the aid of a homer poked out by Sonny Walker and extra-base smashes by Art Chapman, Ted Maitland and Noel Morgan were able to take the measure of the colored gents.

The man who got the brunt of the Victoria bombardments was none other than "Prince" Rusto, the Giants' comedian, who was sending in the offering from the pitching box. They blasted him to all corners of the lot during the game to gain 17 of their 18 base knocks and all their runs. Chief Bolo replaced Rusto on the mound in the ninth and he put a halt to Victoria's heavy-slugging spree.

HOLDEN WORKS WELL

Vancouver's Roy Holden was on the hillock for Victoria and twirled good ball. While he yielded 14 base knocks he kept them well scattered and his support in the field was good.

The score was tied 3 to 3 at the end of the second but the locals established a three-run lead in the next two frames and kept on the top side of the score for the remainder of the tussle. By the end of the seventh Victoria led 7 to 3.

Trades Backfire

Majority of Major League Ball Clubs Have Soured On New Players

Without much of the usual fanfare, there has been considerable trading before and during the present major league baseball season and most of it must taste pretty sour about now to the clubs concerned.

There are some exceptions. Brooklyn Dodgers took a lot of chiding about their castoffs, but they're in fifth place in the National League today—a notch above New York Giants—and that is what counts in Flatbush.

The Dodgers rebuffed their special enemies 7 to 4 in yesterday's only big league game to protect this advantage, and one of the heroes was Al Todd, the catcher Pittsburgh couldn't use. He delivered a pinch double in the midst of a three-run uprising that decided the game in the eighth inning.

Todd's travels furnish a good example of the failure of most of this season's shuffling. Pittsburgh Pirates blamed him to a considerable extent for their collapse in last year's pennant race and sent him to Boston Bees in a straight-player deal for Ray Mueller. But after the first few games of the season Manager Pie Traynor gave up on Mueller and turned to Ray Berres, his No. 2 backstop all last season. This would seem to indicate he gained nothing in the exchange.

"OLD FOX" SLIPS

Clark Griffith, whose David Harum tactics with Washington Senators gained him the nickname of the "Old Fox," likewise didn't like Zeke Bonura at first base, so he waived him out of the American League and into the camp of the Giants. But yesterday the Senators finally decided that Jim Waddell was even worse, and released him to Minneapolis in the American Association. Now they hope to get along with outfielder Sammy West at first base.

Recently St. Louis Browns sent Buck Newsom and three other players to Detroit Tigers for Vernon Kennedy and five others. The Browns were getting hitting and needed pitching. They still need pitching—and have lost 13 of the 17 games they have played since the deal went through.

Biggest previous transaction was the off-season swap of Chicago Cubs and the Giants, in which each club gave three players. Billy Jurges and Joe DeMaree have been working regularly and fruitfully in the New York vineyard, and Gus Mancuso has caught his full share of games for the Bruins. But the troubles of shortstop Dick Barry are well known, and Hank Leiber hasn't been an O'Leary's cow in setting Chicago afire.

In fact, the Cubs' doldrums caused Manager Gabby Hartnett and his front office to think of sending two pitchers and outfielder Joe Marty, their world series sparkplug, to the Phillies this week in return for Claude Passeau.

Most consistent performances this spring have been given by the clubs which led the least trading. Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals, who have stepped as far out in front of the National League as precedent permits, depended almost entirely on their own strength and that of their farm clubs.

Grads Win By Eight Points

Score Second Straight Victory Over Chicago Cagers By 46 to 34

EDMONTON (CP)—Staging a strong rally in the closing minutes, Edmonton Grads defeated Chicago Queen Anne Aces 46 to 34 here last night in the second game of a three-game challenge series for the Underwood women's international basketball trophy. The victory boosted Grads' lead in the total point round to 87 to 63.

It was a nip-and-tuck affair until late in the third quarter when Grads went into the lead to stay with the score standing 22 to 27, although playing again without Noel Macdonald, captain and centre, Grads were able to outlast the Chicago girls after a hot session, which saw 12 points put through the hoops in the first two minutes of the third quarter.

Grads went into a 9 to 4 lead in the first quarter, fell behind 15 to 14 at half time, and the lead alternated repeatedly through the third quarter before Grads went ahead and made the count at the end of the third session 28 to 23.

Scottish Footballers To Open B.C. Tour Saturday

Two Golf Feuds Being Renewed

Guldahl, Metz, Runyan and Snead in New York Tourney Highlight

NEW YORK (AP)—Golf, generally speaking, is one of the more impersonal sports. You step up to the tee and hit your ball, then your opponent hits his, and the only bodily contact comes in the handshake at the finish.

Yet there were two personal matters up for decision today as 15 crack pros teed off in the first round of the $5,000 Goodall round robin. One was the score to be settled between United States open champion Ralph Guldahl and Dick Metz, the other between United States Professional Golfers' Association champion Paul Runyan and Sam Snead, Canadian open champion.

Last June at Denver, Guldahl put on a cold-blooded finish to win the open title for the second straight year. Metz was the runner-up. A month later came the P.G.A. championship and Guldahl was installed favorite. But Metz, the man who had trailed him at Denver, knocked him off on the second day.

In that same tournament Runyan and Snead went into the title round. Runyan handed Guldahl a Sam an 8 and 7 walloping. In this four-day Goodall tournament they meet again. Guldahl and Metz clash today, as they are paired with Craig Wood in one of the first rounds of threesomes.

Runyan and Snead will meet again in tomorrow afternoon's third round, for which they have been paired with Harry Cooper.

Each of the 15 players will play 126 holes—seven rounds—and will meet each of his rivals once in seven series of threesomes matches. The winner, who gets the $500 Goodall trophy and $1,000, will be decided on the basis of holes won, while every man in the field will get a cash prize, with the smallest $100 for the 14th and 15th place finishers.

AT DANGER POINT

"Young pitchers, particularly, should try to remember that when their arms get tired they are at the danger point. Many an arm has been badly hurt by pitching when it is tired. If a boy feels his arm is a little tired, he should take a rest."

"Good advice is—don't be too anxious to pitch when you're not positive your arm is right."

Lyons has forged to the front of the White Sox starting hurlers group through long rest periods, exceptional control and the ability to make batters hit into double plays. He lost the home opener to St. Louis 5 to 1, then whipped Philadelphia, Boston, Washington and Detroit in succession.

In his four victories he yielded only seven runs. His earned run average is a smart 2.25. He has walked only six batters and struck out 18. He allowed only 34 hits in 44 innings.

Tourists Meet Vancouver Monday and Play in Victoria Wednesday

Victoria's football players and officials are busy making plans to entertain the touring Scottish Football Association team next week both off and on the field. The Scots will arrive in the city Tuesday afternoon, meet a Victoria all-star eleven at the Athletic Park Wednesday evening at 6 and leave on the return trip to Vancouver Thursday afternoon.

First appearance of the tourists in British Columbia will be at Nanaimo on Saturday at 5. Their next match will be in Vancouver Monday, following which they will come here. They play in Vancouver again on June 10, and then head east to keep an engagement in Winnipeg June 14.

It was announced today the visitors will be the guests of both the city and the provincial government at banquets, and will be taken on a trip to Butchart's Gardens. Arrangements have also been made for the Scottish visitors to play golf if they wish.

THREE INTERNATIONALS

The Scottish team is practically an all-star aggregation. While the selectors included only three of this year's national team they restricted their choice to players of known ability. This year's internationals on the squad are John Dawson, Glasgow Rangers; James Carabine, Third Lanark and Alex. McNab, West Bromwich Alex.

Two representative S.F.A. teams have crossed the Atlantic in recent years. The last tour was made in 1935, when a strong squad maintained a clean sheet in 13 games, scoring 68 goals against eight. Twenty matches were played by a touring team in 1927. The Scots were beaten by an all-star Toronto and district eleven, but in a return match with the same team the tourists took full revenge, winning 10 to 0.

PLAYER SKETCHES

Sketches of the touring players follow:

John Dawson (Rangers)—Goal-keeper, six feet, 168 pounds. "Jerry," as he is known to Scottish fans, has played 13 times for his country. Born at Falkirk, he joined Rangers in 1929 from Camelon Juniors.

James Carabine (Third Lanark)—Right or left back, 5 ft. 9 inches, 154 pounds. Has been eight years with the Cathkin Park Club. An international player, he hails from Blantyre and was picked up by Third Lanark when playing for Larkhall Thistle.

Douglas Gray (Rangers)—Right back, 5 feet 7½ inches, 154 pounds. Born at Aberdeen, he has kept a place on Rangers' defence since joining the Light Blues from Mugemoss, a junior team, 14 years ago. An excellent judge of position.

Ben Elliot (Motherwell)—Left back, 5 feet 9 inches, 147 pounds. Joined his present club nine years ago after playing for Bangor, (Turn to Page 12, Col. 1)

Lyons Masters Pitching Art

Veteran Chicago White Sox Hurler Gives Advice To Youngsters

CHICAGO (AP)—Ted Lyons, who 16 years ago this month decided he'd look better in a Chicago White Sox uniform than a cap and gown, drew a verbal "danger line" today for the benefit of young pitchers now nursing hopes of making the big jump to the professional diamond—without backsliding.

The "Baylor Bearcat" should know something about that jump. He came directly from Baylor University to the White Sox in 1923 and has been with the club through his entire major league career. He's started his 17th season with four straight victories in five starts and baseball veterans say he's never looked better.

"There isn't any mystery to this right arm of mine," he laughed today. "I've simply taken care of it and now I get the proper rest between starts."

"Young pitchers, particularly, should try to remember that when their arms get tired they are at the danger point. Many an arm has been badly hurt by pitching when it is tired. If a boy feels his arm is a little tired, he should take a rest."

"Good advice is—don't be too anxious to pitch when you're not positive your arm is right."

CALGARY (CP)—The touring Scottish football team continued its sweep through Canada and United States last night by defeating an all-star Alberta eleven 7 to 0. The victory was the fourth for the Scots since they landed at Montreal last week.

Only the brilliant aerobic goal-keeping by Bob Dunlop, Lethbridge basketball ace, kept the smooth-passing Scots from making a greater one-sided score.

Douglas McAvoy, inside-left for Kilmarnock, beat Dunlop in 10 minutes and scored three goals with the final counter just before the whistle ended the game.

George Hamilton, Aberdeen's ace inside-right, dented the netting twice and single goals by Tom McIntyre, Hibernians outside-right, and Jack Jones, centre-forward from Third Lanark, completed the rout.

Wales, his home town. A dashing player who has been capped several times for his native country.

Robert Bolt (Rangers)—Right halfback, five feet nine inches, 168 pounds. Transferred to the Light Blues this spring at a $1,800 ($8,400) fee after two years at Falkirk. A native of Leith, he formerly played for Hearts and Dunfermline Athletic.

Tom McKenzie (Motherwell)—Right halfback, five feet eight inches, 154 pounds. Before joining the Fir Parkers he played as a junior with Cambuslang Rangers. Born at Shieldmuir, near Wishaw, Lanarkshire.

William Lyon (Celtic)—Centre halfback, six feet, 175 pounds. He is Scottish in everything but his birthplace, being born at Birkenhead, England. In the insurance business, the Celtic captain turned professional after playing as an amateur for Queen's Park.

James Dykes (Hearts)—Centre halfback, six feet two inches, 168 pounds. Born at Law Junction, near Wishaw, he played for Wishaw Higher Grade School before signing for the Edinburgh team six years ago.

Alexander McNab (West Bromwich Albion)—Left halfback, five feet six and a half inches, 154 pounds. Has had a remarkable rise to fame. While playing in midweek football he was spotted by the Junior Pollok Club. After two games was signed by Sunderland, leaving the Wearside to join West Bromwich.

Tom McIntyre (Hibernian), outside right, five feet eight inches, 158 pounds. A comparative newcomer, he has the distinction of coming from Livingstone Station, home of the famous Tommy Walker. A fast, tricky player, he went to Hibs two years ago from the junior Portobello Renton.

George Hamilton (Aberdeen), inside right, five feet nine inches, 154 pounds. Has seen the two extremes of Scottish senior football as far as distance is concerned. Born at Irvine, Ayrshire, he went north to Aberdeen from Queen of the South at Dumfries.

Malcolm McDonald (Celtic), forward or halfback, five feet eight inches, 154 pounds. Ranks as first-class utility player and before signing for the Celtic played for St. Anthony's. He was born in Glasgow.

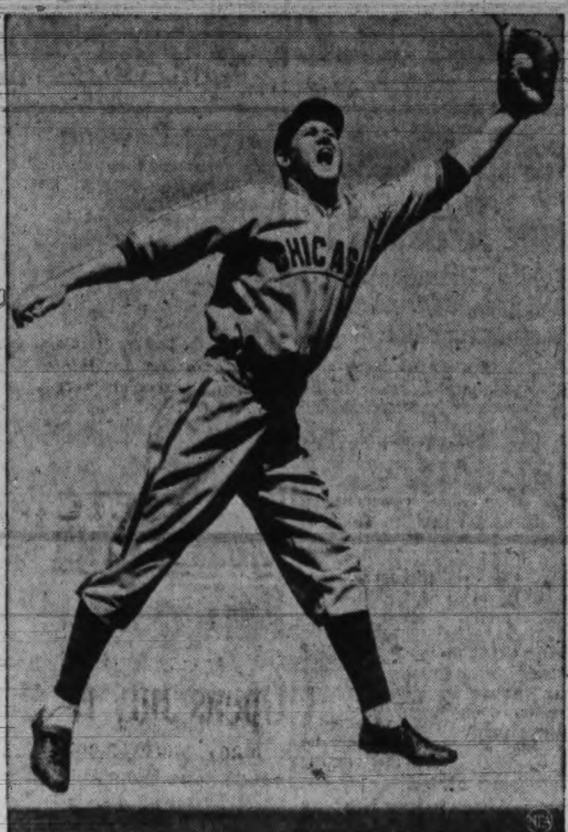

Archie Garrett (Hearts), centre forward, five feet 11 inches, 168 pounds. Born at Leamshagow, he first played professional football for Preston North End, English League team. He was transferred to his present club last season.

Douglas Haig McAvoy (Kilmarnock), inside left, five feet 8 1/2 inches, 161 pounds. Named after Britain's wartime field marshal, he has strategy highly developed in his soccer constitution. Joined Kilmarnock three years ago from Cumnock Juniors.

John Jones (Third Lanark), inside left, five feet 10 inches, 154 pounds. Known as "Soldier" Jones because of his army training. Past and direct in his methods, he hails from Gourcock on the Firth of Clyde and started his soccer career with Greenock Morton Juniors.

John Gillies (Clyde), outside left, five feet 6 1/2 inches, 147 pounds. A clever winger, he came into prominence three years ago when he starred with Shawfield Juniors in Glasgow. Played a big part in Clyde's Scottish Cup success.

James Caskie (Everton), outside left, five feet three inches, 140 pounds. The midget of the team but a terror to opposing defences. "Wee Jamle" belongs to Possilpark, Glasgow, and was transferred to the Toffe-makers after four seasons at St. Johnstone.

CHICAGO CUBS' NEW STAR—Glen (Rip) Russell, caught pulling down a high throw, daily makes it more evident that the National League ball club bosses knew what they were doing when they left Ripper Collins in Los Angeles.

Submarine Disaster Spotlights Rescue Genius

A seaman wearing a Momsen "lung" is shown bobbing up in a tank at the submarine training school at New London, Conn., after coming out of a submerged submarine.

WASHINGTON—The trapped men rescued from the submarine Squalus, 240 feet below the Atlantic's surface mostly have Charles Bowers Momsen, Lieutenant-Commander, U.S.N., to thank.

For this 43-year-old naval officer has been the outstanding genius in the perfection of submarine rescue devices during the dozen years or so the Navy Department has been working to prevent such wholesale loss of life as occurred in the S-51 and S-4 disasters.

So, when the Squalus sank, Momsen flew to the scene, and stood by, watching some of his inventions get their first real life-and-death tests. The very divers who descended to the Squalus could work longer, more safely, more comfortably and more efficiently, due to a new breathing mixture of helium and oxygen he devised to replace the plain air that used to be pumped to them.

ALL THE GOBS LIKE HIM After about a score of years in the navy, much of it in submarines, there is little doubt about the "pig-boats" that "Swede" Momsen from St. Paul, Minn., doesn't know. At present he is in charge of the experimental diving unit in the Washington Navy Yard, where new developments for submarines are tested out. He has been a sub commander in his time, and it is reported that next year he will be assigned to command a division of them. Those at the Washington Navy Yard will tell you he never orders anyone to do anything "he can't or won't do himself."

HONOR FOR "LUNG" One time he did do it himself, because he refused to let an enlisted man take the risk. That was when he and other navy research men had perfected the now famous "Momsen lung"—that little bag of oxygen which clipped to a man's nose, enables him to rise to the water's surface from great depths.

The only way to test it was to test it. If it worked, swell. If it didn't—another name would go on the Navy honor roll of dead heroes. Momsen gambled his life on the device and won. He also won the Distinguished Service Cross for that little achievement. The citation described the lung

CLEVER STUNTS AT MOTORBIKE RODEO

Program Featured By Frank Baylis' Drive
Through Flaming Wall

Roaring down a roadway lined with flares to crash through a wall of flame, Frank Baylis climaxed last night's motorcycle rodeo at the Athletic Park as a comparatively small but enthusiastic audience cheered.

Staged under the auspices of the Victoria Motorcycle Club in connection with the city's special celebrations, the program provided thrills aplenty for the spectators.

Broken boards, still flaming, showers of sparks and embers exploded in the air as Baylis hit his objective, a wooden wall soaked in gasoline.

Solo and double stunting on motorcycles, and a particularly difficult number with a motorcycle and sidecar, in which the occupant of the sidecar took off the wheel and replaced it while the machine was going at a good speed, each gained well-merited applause. Motorcycle polo, ramp jumping, barrel roll, stake race and a number of other interesting items rounded out the entertainment.

The Royal Visit

Spencer's Remnants Cheered Royal Pair

Among the war veterans who cheered most heartily when the King and Queen drove through Victoria streets on Tuesday were the 40 members of Spencer's Remnants, all from the Victoria store of David Spencer Limited.

They lined up on Joan Crescent, in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spencer, to greet Their Majesties as they drove by. The King saluted and Queen Elizabeth rewarded the cheering men with a smile.

The contingent was under Sergeant-Major James Stuckey, 78-year-old veteran of many wars, who retired from the hardware shipping department of the store recently. For 30 years he has served with Canadian and Imperial forces.

The Remnants were smart in Royal blue berets. Medals won overseas were worn.

Public Praised

Behavior of the crowds on the lawns of Parliament Square Tuesday morning, during the visit of Their Majesties, was praised this morning by A. Dixon, chief engineer in the Department of Public Works.

He issued the following statement: "The government appreciates the consideration of the citizens of Victoria and the visiting public for the care they exercised in the preservation of the gardens at the Parliament Buildings. So little damage was done to the flower beds that we may be assured of their being a joy to many of our people during the balance of the season."

Royal Chairs Admired

Crowds of visitors to the Parliament Buildings yesterday swarmed through the Legislative Chamber, where, on Tuesday, the members of the Provincial Parliament and their wives were presented to the King and Queen. They admired the masses of beautiful flowers that were banked against the marble pillars and were particularly interested in the specially-made chairs of Vancouver Island oak, handsomely carved, with their leather seats and backs in Royal blue. These chairs will be kept in the Parliament Buildings for state occasions, and will be shown to the public in the Archives.

Visited Hatley Park

Hatley Park, the unoccupied Dunsmuir estate, was visited for an hour by Their Majesties on Tuesday afternoon, following their long drives in state through Greater Victoria.

Changing into sports clothes at Government House, Their Majesties, accompanied by the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Hamber and their personal attendants, drove in a Government House limousine to the magnificent home and gardens on the outskirts of Victoria.

Because the furniture is ready for auction this week, Their Majesties did not inspect the house, but had tea on the sunlit terrace and later walked about the gardens and down to the sea.

Prepared for Royal Toasts

NEWARK, N.J. (CP)—A special permit will not be necessary for the serving of liquor on the Royal train and the accompanying press train when King George and Queen Elizabeth pass through New Jersey en route to Washington next week. D. F. Burnett, alcoholic beverage control commissioner, said today "we in New Jersey are glad to co-operate in toasting the health of the King and Queen."

A joint commission of Canadian and British shipping experts will enquire into the disaster of the Empress of Ireland. Relief is being sent to the survivors of the terrible mishap in which over 1,000 persons lost their lives. Charges and counter charges are being made by officers and eye-witnesses, but so far the cause of the disaster has not been ascertained.

The Bees lost again to Tacoma by a score of 4 to 1. Delmas, the Victoria team's manager, blamed the umpires for the loss. Batting was about for the local boys and they could not click.

Lacrosse is becoming more popular here. Victoria won from Sidney 11 to 5 yesterday. The local team are very enthusiastic and hope to win consistently under the direction of Skinner Poulin.

The Saanich municipal council will take up the question of a water supply to residents of that area. The council has been working on a scheme for some time, and it is expected that the completed plans will be forwarded to the council at tonight's meeting.

MAYOR VOICES PRIDE IN CITY

Expresses Appreciation
For Public Co-operation
During Royal Visit

Mayor Andrew McGavin today voiced his sincere appreciation of the co-operation accorded official committees and council groups in Victoria's reception to Their Majesties.

"The people of this city have every right to be proud of the manner in which our distinguished visitors were welcomed. I have been informed by the King himself, the Prime Minister of Canada and other leaders here for the event that Victoria's functions were highlights of the Royal tour. I must express specific thanks to those committees who worked for the success of the occasion and with those thanks I would like to couple a word or two of appreciation to the citizens at large. The co-operation of the public was splendid."

had built up a 13 to 5 margin and while the Zulus staged a hard-hitting rally in the last two frames they were still short two runs of tying the score when the game closed.

Axel Kinnear's spectacular spear in the ninth highlighted the game. He jumped high to pick off Limpopo's line drive, which would have gone places if allowed to continue its course.

Other home runs poled during the game were by Bold and Jon, the former's coming in the Giants' closing batting session. The home-run artists slapped the ball over the Pembroke Street fence.

Veteran Miner Dies at Fort St. John

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—Frank Watson, 58, veteran trapper and miner in the Yukon and northern British Columbia, died in the hospital here yesterday, 10 days after he had been flown 450 miles from Fort Liard to Fort St. John.

Fort St. John is 450 miles northwest of Edmonton.

Mr. Watson and his father joined the rush to the Klondike gold fields in 1898 at the age of 17.

For the past 25 years his home had been at Watson Lake, south of the B.C.-Yukon boundary. Besides the widow, he leaves two sons and two daughters, all at Watson Lake.

Rail Executives Look City Over

Alastair Fraser and Wilfrid Gagnon of
C.N.R. Size Up Travel

Two important railway executives in the city are Alastair Fraser, Canadian National vice-president in charge of traffic, Montreal, and Hon. Wilfrid Gagnon, C.N.R. director. They are registered at the Empress Hotel with their wives.

While the visit of either executive had no connection with the Royal Visit, Mr. Fraser spoke of the wonderful reception which has been extended to Their Majesties throughout Canada.

Much of the detail work in connection with the equipping of the Royal train which transported the King and Queen across the continent was handled by Mr. Fraser. The roominess and magnificent appointments of the Royal train greatly pleased Their Majesties. Nothing like it has been used by Royalty in England.

The train will be used by Their Majesties over American lines while they are visiting the United States, and it will mark the first time that such a completely-equipped Canadian train has crossed the international border.

While he is on the coast, Mr. Fraser is taking the opportunity of seeing something of Vancouver Island.

Mr. Fraser this morning met Mr. Gagnon, who reached here from Seattle aboard Ss. Iroquois. Mr. and Mrs. Gagnon have been touring the United States and spent some time looking over the Golden Gate exposition at San Francisco.

Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. Fraser and Mr. and Mrs. Gagnon, accompanied by C. F. Earle, C.N.R. district passenger agent, went up-island by motor.

IMPROVED BUSINESS
Mr. Fraser is particularly optimistic about the railway outlook this season.

Talking generally of the railway business, he said: "Business this year is definitely better than it was a year ago. We had a surprisingly good May. And there is every reason to believe that a corresponding improvement will be noted as the season advances."

"The business handled by the company on Vancouver Island also brought an expression of satisfaction from the railway executive. "Our business on this island is improving," he said. "This is particularly noticeable in the lumber export business, which is steadily expanding."

With the New York and San Francisco fairs beckoning to people all over the continent, the travel movement via Canada should be exceptionally good this year, in the opinion of Mr. Fraser.

He is borne out in this opinion by Mr. Gagnon, who said: "The two big fairs are bound to stimulate travel and you have all the attractions out here to draw a large percentage of the business."

Women Have Narrow Escape in Accident

Mrs. Josephine Cassidy, Garbally Road, suffered bruises and minor injuries, and Mrs. Frances Mainprize, 3102 Albany Street, escaped unhurt when the car in which they were driving crashed into the rear end of a truck on Douglas Street, opposite North Ward School, this morning. Both had narrow escapes from being seriously injured.

A city police report said Mrs. Mainprize was driving south, with Mrs. Cassidy as a passenger, and ran into the truck when her attention was momentarily distracted by a block of wood being thrown across the street. Police said the wood was thrown by Charles Cottell, a B.C. Electric street car operator, who had removed the wood from the car track, where it had apparently been dropped. The wood struck Mrs. Mainprize's car.

Police said the engine of the Mainprize car was buried underneath the rear overhang of the truck and the windshield was broken. Mrs. Cassidy was given medical attention at the Jubilee Hospital, where she was taken in the police ambulance.

TOWN TOPICS

Convicted on a statutory charge. George Jay Cook was sentenced to two years less one day by Judge H. H. Shandley in County Court today.

Bank clearings in the city for the week ending today were $1,560,699, according to a statement issued by the Victoria Clearing House. Figures for the same period last year were $1,798,464.

Arthur Bardsley and Alfred Simpson were convicted in the City Police Court this morning on a charge of stealing a car owned by Oswald Hoyt, and were remanded until tomorrow morning for sentence.

Alexander Henderson was fined $5 in the City Police Court this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being in possession of a stolen flag and tassels which comprised part of the city's decorations for the Royal Visit.

Cool and showery weather in all districts of the province cut down the forest fire toll during the last week, according to the forest branch weekly report. Only 20 outbreaks occurred during the week and the total to date is 329, compared with 297 at the same date last year.

A meeting to review the Salvation Army self-denial campaign will be held at the Citadel tonight. The campaign has concluded with the total aggregate of $2,300. Of this amount $365 was given by the Salvationists of the city. The money will go to alleviate suffering and meet the need of the underprivileged.

Appointment of city representatives on the board of the Jubilee Hospital was listed on the agenda today for Monday afternoon's meeting of the City Council. The session is scheduled to start at 4. At present Judge H. H. Shandley, Alderman John A. Worthington, C. S. Henley, W. H. Johnston and H. G. S. Heisterman are city members on the board. They are expected to be reappointed on Monday.

The monthly meeting of the Victoria Welsh Society will be held tomorrow evening at 8, in the S.O.E. Hall, 1216 Broad Street. Rev. T. G. Griffiths will give a talk. Soloists will be Mrs. Marie Franklin, Mrs. Mildred Cornelius, Stuart Fleming and W. Farmer, the "singing skitcher." A vocal duet will be given by the Gaetz sisters and a recitation by Miss Glemys Jones. The accompanists will be Mrs. Rowen Mason and Miss Gesta Evans.

The Young People's Amsterdam Committee, representative of church groups, is sponsoring a program on Friday evening at 8.15 in the Metropolitan Church hall. The speaker will be Captain Elmore Philpott. The proceeds will go to the general fund, the purpose of which will be to assist a Victoria delegate to the First World's Christian Youth Conference. The conference will have world representation and will be held in Holland, July 24 to August 2.

Premier King's Appreciation

The Visit of Their Majesties to Victoria was one of the highlights of the whole Royal Tour. Prime Minister Mackenzie King told His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Hamber in a telegram received today at Government House.

The message follows: "Words completely fail me in attempting to express to Mrs. Hamber and yourself my appreciation of all the kindness and hospitality extended by Government House throughout the period of the Royal Visit to Victoria."

"Having had the privilege of sharing the many varied and beautiful scenes with you both has left memories which will ever be deeply cherished. "I cannot thank you too sincerely or congratulate you too warmly upon all that Government House contributed to make the visit of Their Majesties to Victoria unsurpassed in interest and delight by the many events of the Royal tour."

Home Building Remains Brisk

City Construction Figures
For May Show Dwellings
Main Undertakings

A brisk home-building program, indicated since the beginning of the year in Victoria, continued during May despite a slight interruption at the end of the month when carpenters were engaged in extensive bleacher construction, according to information given out by the city building inspector's department today.

During the month 10 new homes were started with a total value of $52,100. They represented the major construction expenditure of the month, which grossed $72,741. Lack of large constructions, such as apartments, left the monthly total below that of May last year, when a figure of $100,740 was registered.

The running total for the year to date was correspondingly lower, the 1939 figure being $298,063 up to last night, against $383,120 at May 31, 1938.

During the month just completed 87 permits were issued against 60 during May last year. Since January 329 permits have been granted. During the same period in 1938 the total was 237.

SINGLE MEN START GOING TO CAMP

Up to Telford Whether Those Not Eligible in Vancouver Get Aid

The provincial government will contribute 80 per cent of the cost of relief for single unemployed in Vancouver who are not eligible for the summer forestry camps. If Mayor Telford thinks they should be put on relief, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, said today.

The minister also said that single men whose registrations are accepted for camp will be given temporary relief until they get out. About 300 will go today to the camps which will accommodate about 1,000 all told.

In view of Mayor Telford's implied threat to send single jobless to Victoria for a sitdown strike, Mr. Pearson said: "If the mayor can afford to provide them with transportation here surely the city has the money to give them temporary relief. After all the province pays 80 per cent of the cost toward relief of this kind."

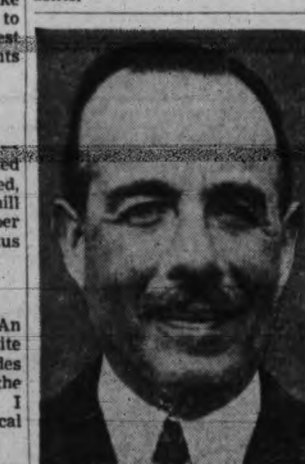

Mr. Pearson said the summer camp scheme for single men was to apply to those men who honestly could not get jobs, as their past record showed.

Actually relief officials would encourage husky young men to try and make themselves independent during the summer time when seasonal work was available. In the winter, the government realized, it was more difficult to obtain work, but the government did not propose to recognize a permanent class of single unemployed. Those in the summer camps will not get jobs in the winter camps.

"The fact is we know that every year thousands of young men find themselves jobs in the summer time. But we do recognize there is a certain group which, as shown by their previous attempts, find it almost impossible. These are the ones we are trying to help."

Like Water
CANBERRA (CP)—This city of 10,000 persons lays claim to a world's record for water consumption. During 24 hours of a recent heat wave 5,250,000 gallons were consumed—525 gallons for each person here.

Public health officials believe that predatory birds, such as owls, help spread bubonic plague by carrying rodents harboring plague-infected fleas to their nests, for food, and thus releasing the fleas to infest other rodents.

Rain Big Help to Strawberry Crop

The strawberry crop of San Juan Peninsula, parched for many rainless days this month, benefited by the heavy rain of last week-end.

Farmers are now preparing to gather the first of the crop, and local strawberries will be on the market shortly.

Rainfall last month amounted to 1.04 inches, which is .08 of an inch above normal. For the first five months of the year the total precipitation was 10.77 inches, which was 1.17 inches below normal.

Sunshine during May totaled 279 hours, which was one hour above average.

The mean temperature for May was 53 degrees, which was one degree above average. The maximum temperature was 78 degrees on May 13 and 14; the minimum 41 on May 9 and the minimum on the grass was 30 degrees on May 9.

Fliers Praise Rescue Crew

Ss. Princess Charlotte
Just in Time to Save Palmer and Bovee

But for the alertness of Shirley Cann, third officer of the C.P.R. steamer Princess Charlotte, Ransome Bovee, 24, and Richmond Palmer, 27, Seattle fliers who nose-dived off Marrowstone Point yesterday afternoon, would have been in an awkward predicament.

Cann was on watch shortly after noon when he saw the Fairchild monoplane, which was flying overhead, take a sudden nose-dive into the water.

The Princess Charlotte was immediately stopped and a boat was lowered and put off to the rescue with Cann in charge. As the two men were taken aboard the plane sank.

"We rented the plane from Lana Curtzer, an instructor, who carries on a rental business on Boeing Field," said Bovee on reaching here. "We started for Port Angeles. I have been flying since 1934, while Palmer has been at it since 1930."

"When 32 miles on our way the motor failed. The Princess Charlotte happened along, thank Heaven. Palmer instantly headed for shore, but saw he couldn't make it and turned the nose of the plane toward the ship. We were only 100 yards away when we nose-dived."

Palmer was knocked out. We both were under water. I unloosed his safety belt and shoved him through the door of the cabin. I had difficulty in getting free of my own belt. As I got him onto the wing of the plane he started to come to. "By this time Third Officer Cann and five men were on their way. How they managed to launch their boat so quickly is a mystery to me, but there they were, and just as we were transferred to the lifeboat the plane sank in 72 fathoms."

"As soon as we were taken aboard the Charlotte we were given hot baths, a swell feed and loaned clothes to wear until our own had dried out."

"The crew of the Charlotte went to town in looking after us. We certainly had a break. Guess we can thank the King and Queen for our rescue, for the place of the Princess Marguerite when that vessel was chosen to transport Their Majesties from Vancouver to Victoria."

"The Charlotte was deadheaded back to Victoria, they tell me, just loafing along. It was not due at that particular point on the regular schedule and even at that, five minutes later and we would have gone down, for the water was cold, Palmer was a bit woozy and I was chilled. I can not say too much for the crew of the Charlotte."

The rescued men left by Ss. Princess Marguerite at 4.30 yesterday afternoon for Seattle.

Rats three feet long found in New Guinea by a recent expedition are believed to be of an unclassified species.

EATING UP SURPLUS—The attention of the whole United States was turned on the scene above as an important government-sponsored experiment which may affect the future of relief and the problem of surplus food production was launched in Rochester, N.Y. Under the plan, relief recipients are encouraged to exchange part of their relief money for "food stamps" which enable them to buy foods listed as "surplus." The picture shows government checkers handling a throng of stamp-seekers.

DEATH ACCIDENT

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the coroner's jury at the inquest into the death of Thomas Henry (Harry) Hodgson, 53, at Sands Mortuary this morning. The jury also added a rider that all garages should be equipped with adequate ventilation facilities.

Mr. Hodgson was found dead in his car early last Monday morning by his daughter, Phyllis. Dr. Frank M. Bryant, who was called by the family, testified he could not give the positive cause of death since there had not been a post mortem examination, but the circumstances indicated carbon monoxide poisoning.

Miss Hodgson testified the key of the car was turned on, the doors of the garage were closed and there was an odor of gas in the garage when she entered. She said she had not seen her father since the afternoon of the previous day and was leaving home on her way to work when she found him.

Lee F. Hallberg, the last person to see Mr. Hodgson alive, testified Mr. Hodgson left his (Mr. Hallberg's) home on Esquimalt Road between 10 and 11 on Sunday night. He had appeared in cheerful spirits.

Members of the jury were: Charles Halthwaite, foreman; Alex Fraser, Fred Welsh, James Vail, Leonard Coton and Harry Craven.

Fire Department Demonstrates Work

A public demonstration of rescue work, use of aerial equipment, handling of lines and use of gas masks was given by the City Fire Department at the rear of the Public Market Building this morning. The demonstration will be repeated tomorrow morning at 10.30.

The demonstration was directed by Fire Chief Alex Munroe and was witnessed by civic officials and a few passersby.

Y.M.C.A. Camp Opens July 17

Many Improvements and Additions Made at Glinz Lake Summer Resort

Camp Thunderbird, the Y.M.C.A. summer resort on the waters of Glinz Lake in the Sooke Hills, will start its camping schedule for young men on July 17. Viv Shoemaker, director of the camp, announced today.

The first camping period will be for young men 12 years and over and will cover a two-week period from July 17 on. From July 31 to August 9 the junior boys, 10 to 12 years, will take over. Girls' camping periods will be held prior and following these dates.

During the winter and spring months extensive improvements have been made at the site of the resort under the forest service projects of the joint Dominion-provincial governments.

Accommodation at the camp has been enlarged so that over 90 persons will be able to take part at one time. A new dining hall, complete with a modern kitchen, storerooms and running water, has been erected. New buildings will be used for workshops, wash houses and recreation centres. Many of these have been built as log cabins. The property surrounding the site has been cleared. A large playground area has been made, with grass sown in various parts. Trails have been made. One new trail has been made around the lake itself.

At various points of the lake shore cement platforms have been constructed. Tons of gravel have been used in other shore sections. A large swimming float has been built, complete with diving boards and tower.

Nurses Still Thrilled

Local members of the Overseas Nurses' Association were this morning still thrilled at their informal meeting with Their Majesties yesterday morning, just before the King and Queen went aboard Ss. Prince Robert for Vancouver.

They crowded around Their Majesties, who were pleased at the spontaneity of the nurses. The King first spoke to Mrs. Frank Crofton of Salt Spring Island and asked her about the seven medals she wore.

Their Majesties shook hands with each of the sisters, spoke briefly, asked about their experiences and said how delighted they were to meet them.

Among those who participated in the thrilling scene were Mrs. Sidney Cave of St. Patrick Street, Mrs. M. Corson of Transit Road, Mrs. Kathleen Harper of Savannah Avenue, Miss Ada Law, a visitor in the city, and Nurse Evelyn Millard of Washington State, who gave the Queen one of her medals.

At first Her Majesty did not want to accept it, but Nurse Millard insisted and the Queen quietly slipped it into her bag.

British Labor Rejects United Front Plans

SOUTHPORT, Eng. (AP)—The Labor Party's annual conference today rejected a proposal for a united front with the Communist, Co-operative and Liberal parties by a vote of 2,360,000 to 248,000.

The proposal was for an alliance based on a "short term program aiming at fulfillment of Labor's foreign policy, preservation of democratic institutions and improvement of the position of workers."

ROTARY, KIWANIS IN JOINT MEETING

The showing of educational moving and talking pictures by the National Film Society of Canada featured a joint luncheon meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs in the Empress Hotel today.

There was a large turnout from both clubs at the luncheon. Austin Curtis, president of the Kiwanians, and G. Hamilton Harman, president of the Rotarians, were joint chairmen.

O. C. Wilson, organizing secretary and business manager of the Vancouver branch, National Film Society of Canada, and J. R. Pollock, vice-president of the mainland city branch, were in charge of the showing of two films. The first gave a review of the percussion instruments in a large orchestra, giving individual demonstrations and the history of each. The second was titled "Mites and Monsters" and reviewed various types of animal life ranging from single-celled animals to monster varieties.

The films were shown following an introductory talk by J. Pitcairn Hogg.

Vocal selections were enjoyed by Mrs. A. Dowell, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. Conyers. New members of Rotary, Col. H. T. Goodland and Robert Thomson, were introduced.

Postpone Ceremonies Until Navy Week

The physical education display, originally planned for tomorrow evening, and all other holiday events of the coming week-end, have been postponed until Navy Week, which will start a week from tomorrow, Alderman W. H. Davies, chairman of the city celebrations committee, said today.

The physical education display will be one of the features of annual Navy Week, which will honor the visit to this port of H.M.S. Orion, of the West Indies squadron of the British navy.

BIG GAINS IN PREPAID TAXES

On a levy which is approximately $65,000 below that of last year the city has collected in prepaid taxes $56,344.43 more than had been paid in at the end of May last year, according to figures released today by the city assessor-collector's office.

At the close of collections last night $617,637.32 had been received in advance, against $561,312.89 for the same period in 1938.

In the arrears division collections held up remarkably well. The view of the fact the city started the year with $215,000 less outstanding in that account than at the beginning of 1937.

Collections were $77,312.21 more last night against $74,907.26 at May 31, 1938. The decrease in that department is $2,495.05.

Pampered Child May Stutter

Only One in Family Also Subject, Psychologists Find

By MARJORIE VAN DE WATER
Science Service Psychology Writer

BRYN MAWR, Pa.—Pampering or spoiling of children is an important factor in development of speech defects, Dr. Julian B. Rotter of Worcester State Hospital, told the meeting of the Eastern Psychological Association here.

Stutterers include more only children and fewer middle children in the family than do non-stutterers, he concluded from a study of the relation of stutterers to other members of their families.

Stutterers differ more in age from their nearest brother or sister than do non-stutterers, and the nearest one in family is more likely to be of the opposite sex.

MUSIC COLORS APPROPRIATE TO MOOD

Listening to classical music in a darkened room, one out of five people "see" colors and many others have ideas of color or feel emotionally as certain colors make them feel, the psychologists learned from a report by Drs. Henry S. Odbert, Theodore F. Karwoski and A. B. Eckerson of Dartmouth College.

Certain colors have a tendency to appear with certain moods, these investigators found. A single musical selection may arouse a variety of mood in different listeners, but the colors "seen" or thought of by each listener were related to the mood evoked in him. Those who reported "seeing" colors described complex patterns or color mixtures more often than did the others.

AVIATORS CANNOT ADAPT EYES

Airplane pilots and passengers flying at high altitudes cannot see as well in dim illumination after looking at a bright light. At 15,000 feet, the amount of illumination necessary for vision is 150 per cent greater than at sea level, Drs. Ross A. McFarland and J. N. Evans of Harvard University told the meeting.

Only five subjects out of 20 remained unaffected by the altitude at 7,400 feet, although psychological tests at that altitude show no reliable changes in mental ability. At 11,000 feet only one subject was unaffected. At 15,000 feet all were affected.

All the changes were abolished by administration of oxygen.

Unborn animals can hear much earlier than has been supposed, Dr. Leonard Carmichael, president of Tufts College, told the psychologists.

ROUMANIANS GO TO POLLS

BUCHAREST (AP)—Two million Roumanians voted today on King Carol's new corporate parliament following the first electoral campaign without violence in the nation's history.

The voters, about one-fifth of the population, elected only the Chamber of Deputies. Leaders of the guilds or corporations, modelled after the Italian pattern, will name half the Senate Friday. King Carol will appoint the rest.

All candidates were members of the single National Front Party, which is under the King's leadership, and public interest appeared mild since the result was known in advance.

A former member of parliament who publicly declared the voting to be a "farce" was sentenced to six months in a concentration camp.

'Western Trails' At Columbia

Bob Baker Makes Hollywood History In Newest Western

When Bob Baker galloped his horse into the first scene of his latest Universal thriller, "Western Trails," he made Hollywood history.

For by that gallop, which can now be seen on the screen of the Columbia Theatre, he started the 1,000th picture to be shot on "the most photographed street in the world." That thoroughfare is "Western Street" at the Universal Studio. This dusty boulevard is a replica of the famed frontier town of Tombstone, Arizona.

Up and down its length has ridden every western star in the annals of Hollywood. Tom Mix, William S. Hart, Hoot Gibson, Ken Maynard, Harry Carey, Buck Jones and many others have shot it out with bad men in the street's dance halls, banks and pool rooms. Bob Baker burns blank cartridge powder for justice's sake, according to this grand tradition in "Western Trails."

OAK BAY THEATRE

Voted as "the best film of the year produced in any country," by the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, "Grand Illusion" is the current feature attraction at the Oak Bay Theatre, with both matinee and evening performances. Directed by Jean Renoir, the picture stars Eric Stroheim in a prison camp story of the war.

KING WELCOMED IN ROBSON PARK

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
MOUNT ROBSON, B.C. (CP)—with the few folk who live in the northern Canadian Rockies waving cheery greetings, the Royal train carried King George and Queen Elizabeth through the grade of mountains today en route to Jasper National Park.

In the fading dusk of last night the Royal train climbed the Pacific slope of the Rockies.

The sky was a bit cloudy in places, and the mountain air chilly, but invigorating as today broke. The Royal train moved along steadily and made a 10-minute stop at Mount Robson.

Around the station were gathered a few more than its quarter-hundred normal population. Mostly families of railway employees, they were joined by guides, who came in from mountain cabins.

Mount Robson rises 12,952 feet above sea level.

The brief stop over, the Royal train pulled away from the station into new mountain grandeur, headed for Jasper National Park.

The Strange Case Of Dr. Meade

Columbia Production With Jack Holt On Plaza Screen

Without deserting his career as an action-drama star, a new and vitally different Jack Holt is promised in "The Strange Case of Dr. Meade," Columbia production opening today at the Plaza Theatre. Holt, pre-eminent in the field of clean, outdoor films suitable for the entire family, appears as a famous surgeon in a story rich with human quality.

Usually cast as an aviator, army officer, lumberjack or kindred adventurous type, Holt's screen debut as a brilliant medical figure in no wise limits the speed and punch to be found in his pictures. According to advance report, "The Strange Case of Dr. Meade" is a fast-moving account of the events which befall a world-famous surgeon when he detains in a remote mountain village to spend his well-earned vacation hunting and fishing.

fighting, loving D'Artagnan and the Ritz brothers as three phony musketeers, 20th Century-Fox's musical comedy version of Alexandre Dumas' "The Three Musketeers," opened at the Atlas Theatre today to the thorough delight of an enthusiastic audience which, when it wasn't cheering at the swordplay, was chortling at the horseplay.

Ring songs, including "Song of the Musketeers," "My Lady" and "Viola," added to the excitement of D'Artagnan's stirring fight to save a throne—all the while he's double-deep in Ritzes!

The story opens with the appearance of the bona fide Athos, Porthos and Aramis at the Ritzes' tavern. A riotous drinking bout toasting all the French monarchs from Louis I to Louis XIII results in the Musketeers winding up under the table and the Ritzes, captivated by the dashing uniforms, donning their costumes.

Ritz Brothers Dominion Bill

The Ritz Brothers go in for a bit of detective as three half-wit Hawshaws in "The Gorilla," which will open at the Dominion Theatre tomorrow.

Anita Louise, Patsy Kelly, Lionel Atwill, Bela Lugosi, Joseph Calleia, Edward Norris and Wally Vernon head the great fun-and-fright cast which Darryl F. Zanuck provided to aid and abet the Ritzes in this chillerous film.

Men Who Inspect Meat

In a long talk with a government meat inspector, I learned some facts about the work which he and his fellow inspectors do. There are several thousand of them at work in the United States and Canada, and they labor long and hard to guard the public health. There were 15 inspectors at the packing plant which I mentioned last Monday. They stay right there, and watch to see that all is done as it should be.

Government man inspecting meat.

When a housewife goes into a meat market, she may be able to tell a little about the work which she is doing. Yet it is possible she will be fooled. Bad meat may, and sometimes does, look good.

The best guarantee of the meats is a government stamp which shows they have been passed by the inspectors. There is no stamp on small cuts of meats, but the housewife can make sure that the cuts are taken from meat which has been inspected.

It is possible for an inspector not to do his duty, and to let poor meats go on the market. We may say, however, that when meat is inspected by the Canadian government or by the national government of the United States it is as safe as meat sold in any country of the world.

Cattle, swine and sheep are studied when they come into the stockyards. If an animal is found to be sick, it may be marked at once "for the soap factory or fertilizer works."

Sometimes the animal looks as though it might be sick, but the inspector is not sure about it. Then he marks it with a tag, and gives it special study after it is killed.

Even cattle which look quite well alive are given later study. While the heart and other vital organs are still in place, the inspector can learn facts which point one way or another. He cuts into glands, and the glands give him further facts. He also looks at the tongue with care.

Livestock may suffer from many diseases which make their flesh unfit for food. Such diseases include railroad fever, tetanus and tuberculosis. When hogs have cholera, they are not fit for food.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"Certainly I love you—but couldn't we hire a cook until you've sort of found your way around the kitchen?"

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—What is your advice in this case? A boy of 16, large for his age, is in the freshman class in high school. He gets good marks in his studies except in Latin and mathematics, and one of his teachers helps him in his lessons after school so as to bring up his standing, for which he is most grateful. The boy and the teacher have fallen in love with each other and want to be married. He earns some money after school hours and on Saturday. He intends to go to college and later to become a doctor. Would you advise them to marry soon, or to postpone it?

A FRIEND.

Answer: I should certainly advise them to put off doing a thing that will wreck both of their lives, because it will be just as disastrous to the teacher to marry a kid who is so young he doesn't know what he is doing as it will be for him to marry a woman of whom he will grow tired before he ever gets to be a man.

It is a common enough thing for boys to fall in love with their teachers. Nearly every lad's first love is some woman old enough to be his mother. Psychologists tell us it is a hangover from his babyhood, but it is a rare thing, indeed, for the objects of these infantile love affairs not to take them at their face value and smile over them and let it go at that. Certainly any grown woman who thinks herself in love with an adolescent schoolboy has an abnormal capacity for romance.

As to the couple marrying, that's out, unless the lady proposes to take on a child to rear and to support for many a long year. It takes a lot of time for a boy who is no great student to go from the freshman class in high school through college, through a long medical course and his internship in some hospital, and even after all of that he has to wait for a practice. And by the time he does it if he has married his teacher when he was 16 she is an old woman and his eye is out for a flapper.

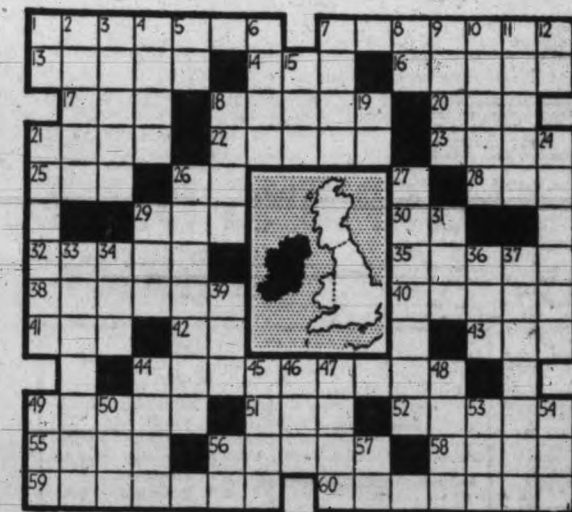

DEAR MISS DIX—Would you advise a woman past 50, who has been a widow twice and who is good-looking, wears good clothes, drives her own car and has a good position with a good salary, to marry a man who has no settled way of making a living, but who is very pleasant and congenial? My daughter objects to it.

UNDECIDED.

Answer: Better listen to your daughter and let well enough alone. Besides if you have already had two husbands you have had your share. A middle-aged man who can't support himself is a poor bet for an energetic woman who is a go-getter.

Body of Hunted Man Found in Wilds

Search for W. Casselman Ends at Creek 30 Miles From Sudbury

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—The body of 73-year-old Bill Casselman, for whom police had been searching for more than a week for questioning in connection with the deaths of two Sudbury prospectors, was found today in Mountain Creek in the lonely Lake Wahnipitae district, 30 miles northeast of here.

The find ended one of northern Ontario's greatest manhunts, in progress since May 23 when Casselman disappeared from his farmhouse. Provincial police had gone there to question him about the disappearance of Gilbert Bennett and Wilbur (Tom) Sawyer.

The hunt took on new intensity with the finding of the bodies of the wealthy Bennett and his friend in Mountain Creek last Friday. Sawyer's body was pierced by a bullet and Bennett's head had been smashed, apparently after being struck by a soft-nosed bullet.

The search ended when a pre-arranged signal—a piece of red, white and blue bunting fluttering above the Casselman farm house—was seen from the air by Pilot Dick Overbury, of the Ontario forestry branch, one of the government agencies employed in the hunt.

Overbury landed and took off again immediately for the Skead forestry office on the opposite side of Lake Wahnipitae. A boat was dispatched to bring out the search party and the body of the old recluse.

Bennett and Sawyer, veteran prospectors, were believed to have been working on spectacular gold finds when slain.

Bennett had told his lawyer he thought he had "the biggest gold mine on the North American continent." Shortly before his death, Bennett was said by friends to have sold his nickel holdings in the north for a large amount of money with which he was going to work his new claims.

The slaying of Bennett and Sawyer was believed to have climaxed a long feud Casselman had carried on with them over land rights.

Fire Sweeps Refinery

TALCO, Tex. (AP)—Fire that swept through the refinery of the Paluxy Asphalt Company following a series of terrific explosions was brought under control early today after causing damage unofficially estimated at $100,000 and injuring four persons.

C. W. Moore, refinery worker, was in a critical condition in a hospital. C. S. Streetman, another workman, and Cotton Allen, employed by the American Liberty Pipeline Company, were burned slightly. A fireman suffered burns on his feet.

HOROSCOPE

Friday, June 2, 1939

Adverse aspects are strong in the horoscope of today, according to astrology. The stars frown upon leaders, and persons who wield authority may be unlucky.

Accidents may be many today, especially in transportation. Despite safety campaigns the summer will record a great number of catastrophes.

Mars is in a threatening rule. Movements of warships are forecast. Aviators are well directed. World fears may be reflected strongly in Canadian minds, and for that reason mental poise should be determinedly cultivated. Nerves should not be indulged or temperaments humored.

There is a sign indicating deception and intrigue. Men and women may be misled by dangerous propaganda, but citizens should vigorously oppose prejudices touching on race or religion. Secret machinations are aimed at the government and may be of grave portent for the future. The young in Canada should be wisely guided as they form opinions and build character.

Women should find this a favorable date for informal social affairs. This is an auspicious date for girls who plan careers. Novel vocations are foreseen and unexpected opportunities are predicted.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of good fortune and general happiness. They should be on guard against possible frauds.

Children born on this day may be impulsive and outspoken, clever and ambitious. These subjects of Gemini may appear to possess contradictory traits.

CRESTON, B.C. (CP)—Germans are eating more Canadian apples. British Columbia exports of apples to Germany this year total 115 cars, an increase of 15 over 1938.

HAD DIZZY SPELLS FOR 3 YEARS

Result of Acid Indigestion

"Before taking Kruschen," a woman writes, "I had very bad dizzy spells and hot flushes, bad spells of acid indigestion, and I was so nervous at times that the least thing would upset me. I was about three years in that condition."

"I could not tell you in words how happy and glad I am today that I gave Kruschen Salts a trial. I have now taken them for 18 months. I would not miss them one day. They are a great help to anyone who suffers as I did. I feel in better health today than I have for years. After taking Kruschen for three weeks the dizzy faints and hot flushes left me. I now feel so bright and cheerful. Kruschen Salts assist to keep you fit and fine." — (Mrs.) J. M.

Kruschen Salts is an excellent remedy for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The numerous salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your inside is thus kept clear of those impurities which, when allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system. (Advt.)

King Greeted in New Westminster

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—

The King and Queen visited this historic port on the Fraser River for a brief time yesterday afternoon, and received the plaudits of a city grown to twice its real size by an influx of 20,000 visitors.

They left at 3.46 p.m. for Jasper National Park, beginning their return journey to eastern Canada.

They found in New Westminster denser crowds than in most of the other centres they had visited, for the route was short. Ten thousand children packed into Queen's Park, where the King and Queen were in a well of fluttering flags and shrill cheers.

They spent a moment watching 3,000 of the boys and girls re-stage for their benefit part of the city's May Day celebration and annual function inaugurated by Royal Engineers from England nearly 80 years ago.

Then they motored through the river-skirting business section of the growing shipping centre, founded by the Engineers in 1859 as first capital of the colony of British Columbia.

They passed the spot where the first Legislature of the mainland colony was instituted in that year and where the mainland was governed for almost a decade before being moved to Victoria after the separate mainland and Vancouver Island colonies were brought under one government.

VOYAGE FROM VICTORIA

To New Westminster the King and Queen had motored from Vancouver, where the steamship,

Prince Robert, flagship of the Canadian National coast fleet, had landed them on their return from Victoria.

During the voyage the Queen obviously was delighted with the sun-bathed scenery from the bridge. Viewing the islands in the Gulf of Georgia, the Queen turned to Capt. H. E. Nedden, the ship's commander, to ask: "Could we buy one of these islands?"

"Why buy them, Your Majesty," the veteran captain smiled. "They are all yours now."

Unofficially the suggestion was made that if any are still the property of the Crown — actually the Canadian Government — one be deeded to the Queen.

The Queen had her moving-picture camera clicking constantly and kept the group on the bridge animated while she recorded the scene. The subjects were: The King, Capt. Nedden, Com. R. L. Agnew, who accompanied the Royal Couple from Esquimalt naval base, and Com. Abel-Smith of the Royal Suite.

AT CHILLIWACK
CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP) — King George and Queen Elizabeth spent 15 minutes in this Fraser valley town yesterday afternoon and 10,000 persons at the station to see them surged through barrier ropes around the observation platform on the Royal train as they left at 5.42 p.m.

HOPE'S GREETING
HOPE, B.C. (CP) — More than 1,500 people, many from Yale, Ladlaw and other surrounding communities, gathered in this little town nestled in the towering mountains that hem in the Fraser River, and greeted King George and Queen Elizabeth yesterday evening.

The crowd lined a 300-yard long barrier near the station. The train arrived at 6.35 p.m. and left at 6.43 p.m.

NAZIS SAY RUSSIA PACT WILL BE WEAK

Molotov's Speech Said to Mean No Strong Treaty for Britain

BERLIN (AP) — Nazis asserted today alleged British-French efforts at "encirclement" had been cut in two after they had studied yesterday's speech by Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet Premier and Foreign Commissar.

They said they expected a British-French-Russian treaty eventually would be signed, but it would be a pact, one said, "so watered down that it will be meaningless."

Official comment, however, was cautious. "The speech did not concern Germany," a Foreign Office spokesman said. "It was an explanation of negotiations among Russia, France and Britain."

"Hence we have nothing to say. Our position is well known; we are against the encirclement front which we maintained in opposition to the peace front of the (Rome-Berlin) axis. Furthermore, it is not clear-cut whether Molotov's speech was a step for or against encirclement." (Prime Minister Chamberlain and other British leaders have denied Nazi and Fascist charges that the British-French front was engaged in efforts to "encircle" Germany.)

Reference by Molotov to the possibility trade negotiations with Germany might be resumed after two breakdowns were received as "nothing extraordinary" and "a matter-of-course development such as might happen with any other country."

Unequal tire pressure will cause front wheels of automobiles to shimmy.

Mayor Telford Suggests Destitute Single Men See Government

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor J. Lyle Telford said today single destitute unemployed men ruled ineligible for admission to summer relief camps may be sent to Victoria by the Vancouver city council to lay their case before the government.

The Mayor said he was obtaining from provincial welfare officials a list of men now in Vancouver who are being refused admission to the camps. He believes about 100 are in this category.

When he has obtained details he will recommend to the civic social services committee next Monday that funds be provided to send the men to the capital.

"They can lay their case on the government's doorstep, where it belongs, and then we shall see what can be done," he said.

This little scene of relaxation occurred on the arrival at Southampton of the troopship Nevassa, bringing home to England a contingent of troops from Malta and Palestine. Many of the men were accompanied by wives and children, among them Sgt. Rawcliffe of the Royal West Kents. Detailed to escort his 11-month-old twins ashore, he puts them down in the lee of the mooring bitt, and one can almost hear the echo of his sigh of relief as he lights a cigarette.
